STINGING INDICTMENT BY GREEN

URGES FOR STRIKE DEFERMENT
UNTIL JUNE 30

UNRESERVED SUPPORT

Pittsburgh, Yesterday.

A stinging indictment of the American steel-masters was made by Mr. William H. Green, Secretary of the American Federation of Labour, in a speech at the convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, here, yesterday.

"YOU HAVE MATCHED PERHAPS THE MOST POWER-FUL FOE OF THE AMERICAN STEEL COMPANIES, THE MOST AUTOCRATIC, THE MOST DOMINEERING, THE MOST DICTATORIAL, AND THE MOST UNREASONABLE GROUP OF EMPLOYERS IN AMERICA," HE DECLARED. "IF YOU ACCEPT THE PLAN YOUR CAUSE IS WON AND YOUR PUR-POSE ACHIEVED."

The keynote of the speech was that it was patriotic action that was needed this time to promote industrial peace.

The convention adopted an amendment to Mr. Green's plan stating that in the event of the proposal being unacceptable to President Roosevelt and the Iron and Steel Institute, the officers would be empowered to call a strike at any time they should determine.

IT IS BELIEVED THAT MR. GREEN INDICATED THAT THE STRIKE SHOULD BE DEFERRED AT LEAST UNTIL JUNE 30 WHEN THE EMPLOYEE CONTRACTS EXPIRE. HE PROMISED THE UN-RESERVED SUPPORT OF THE FEDERATION OF LABOUR IN ANY NECESSARY ACTION TO FORCE RECOGNITION FROM THE STEEL COMPANIES.—REUTER.

The Warwickshire captain had once before captained England in a Test

Test of the 1930 series when Woodfull's eleven won the Ashes. Wyatt was also vice-captain in Jardine's team in the most recent Australia series.

The Administration's substitute for the Wagner Bill has been introduced into both Houses as a joint resolution amending the Recovery Act.

The Senate Labour Committee immediately made a favourable report on the measure.

The Democratic leader, Senator Robinson said that he believed that it would be passed to-day.

The measure authorises the President to establish boards to investigate labour controversies, to conduct employee representatives' elections and to determine the majority for representation. It provides penalties for violations.—

Highway Robbery Report
From Repulse Bay

Privates Holley, Roberts, and Booth, the three South Wales Borderers who were reported missing from Murray Barracks on Friday night, following the report of a highway robbery near Repulse Bay Hotel beach, returned of their own accord to Barracks yesterday evening.

They were immediately placed under arrest by the military police for being absent from barracks without permission and sent to the detention chambers.

It is stated that all three soldiers returned to barracks without their hats, coats, and belts.

The Chinese chauffeur, victim of the robbery, in his report to the police, stated that one of the soldiers who attacked him left his service cap and stick in the car after they deserted the car.

NO IDENTIFICATION
The hat, however, bore no identification mark or badge, the Sunday Herald was informed last night.

During the whole of Saturday morning and afternoon the police and military combined in a search for three South Wales Borderers soldiers who were reported to have absented themselves from Murray Barracks on Friday night.

CIRCULATED REPORT TOO LATE
Three British soldiers were seen in the vicinity of Stanley Police Station at 1.20 a.m. on Saturday, shortly before the circulated report was received of a highway robbery, said to have been perpetrated by three British soldiers.

An attempt to locate the soldiers was made immediately, but all efforts, which were continued up till yesterday afternoon, proved unavailing.

REMARKABLE
MISS PALFREY

MARGARET SCRIVEN
OVER CONFIDENT

Held Match Point And Then Beaten.

London, Yesterday.
For the eighth time in the series of twelve encounters America beat Great Britain for custody of the Wightman Cup lawn tennis trophy, winning by 4 matches to 2 at Wimbledon to-day.

Commencing the day with a 2-1 lead the Americans secured an almost unassailable position when Helen Jacobs beat Dorothy Round in straight sets. Then Sarah Palfrey caused a sensation by beating Peggy Scriven, No. 2 ranking player in Britain, after losing the first set to clinch victory for the holders in what was considered to be the vital match.

Scores as called by Reuter were:
Miss H. Jacobs (U.S.) beat Miss D. E.
Round 6-4, 6-4.
Miss S. Palfrey (U.S.) beat Miss M.
C. Scriven 4-6, 6-2, 8-6.
Miss B. Nuthall (Britain) beat Miss
C. Babcock 6-7, 6-3, 6-4.

AMERICAN'S DEFENCE
A rock-like defence enabled Hellen Jacobs, U. S. national champion, to beat Dorothy Round, 6-4, 6-4 in the first match of the day.

Miss Jacobs was always equal to any emergency, her chop shots just skimming the net with amazing accuracy.

Miss Round, who took a set off
Helen Wills-Moody at Wimbledon last year, brought off many beautiful drives to the corner which frequently kept her opponent on the run. The English girl was also superb in her net play, but Miss Jacobs's steadiness was unshakable.

There were several duces in the ninth game of the first set, but Miss Round just failed to clinch matters.

She led 3-1 in the second set, and nearly went to 4-1, but, by bouts of brilliant driving, Miss Jacobs recovered well to secure the set and match to give America a 3-1 lead.

REMARKABLE RALLY
Sarah Palfrey, considered a bottom doubles player, gave one of the pluckiest displays ever seen in a Wightman Cup match when she beat a better player in Peggy Scriven after being led 5-1 in the final set.

The sensational defeat of Crawford, Wimbledon champion, by a more youngster provided the feature of the encounter after McGrath had surprised Bousass.

Scores as called by Reuter were:
V. M. McGrath (Australia) beat C.
Bousass (France) 6-3, 6-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.
A. Merila (France) beat J. A. Crawford 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Forced Clearing House Threat Action.

MORE SALES TO BRITAIN THAN BUYING

Berlin, Yesterday.
The German Government declines to carry on negotiations under pressure of a threat of a forced clearing-house measure. Germany's official reply to the British note regarding retaliatory measures in connection with Germany's moratorium. The reply, however, has not yet been delivered.

Whatever measures Great Britain takes against German exports, they will be by retaliatory measures against British imports into Germany.

The reply points out that Germany had a passive trade balance with the British Empire in 1934, amounting to 60,000,000 marks.
The facts are that the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr.
Neville Chamberlain, announced that the clearing house would apply to Britain only if it were true that Germany buys more from the British Empire than she sells, but Germany sells more to Britain than she buys.—Reuter.

SHORT STORY.

STEEPLEJACK

By C. HEDLEY BARKER.

MEMORY persists, and gold is perdurable, so that probably in a thousand years from now some Mardenite will point to the golden cross on the steeple of Marden church, and Jack Sedge will become a bad lot for the millionth time. For that is how the rustics speak his epitaph to-day, with head-shakings, a tone of weighty condemnation, and a solemn, reminiscent clouding of the eye. "Ahl! He were a bad lot, a mortal bad lot." And further: "Leastways, that's what they do say. He was afore my time. But, a mortal chancy customer, according to all accounts. But, in any conversation about Jack Sedge it emerges that he was far from being gifted with those furtive talents which are commonly associated with the bad lot. Crime was no habit with him; indeed, the crime which has lived after him all these years to be quoted in countless debit columns was the only one that he ever conceived.

Moreover, he did not lack the simple virtues which characterise the average country labouring man. He worked hard, drank in moderation, paid his dues, was a good husband to his woman, and never short of a kind word. However, the work, the goodness, the kind words: all the bright bits of worth that go to make a decent man are as naught when he has sinned and died.

Jack Sedge was a bad lot. He tried to steal the cross off St. Ethelbert's steeple; the holy cross, and, as you might say, God's own property.

Imagination doesn't flourish among the people of the soil. They till the land, and see no wonder in its fruits; they plough, and sow, and reap, and order the cattle, and a few pints of ale. Crops and harvests, droughts, market prices, fat heifers: such is the staple diet for their minds. In these circumstances such a thing as a golden cross; a cross, mark you, of solid gold, makes a rich dish. There it stood, atop of the steeple, looking about six inches long, and worth the best part of a thousand pounds. The Squire was ill, the Squire was dying, and lo! when old Tom Thaxted was standing—by-to-tell-fifty-one years on St. Ethelbert's bell, one year was well again. So, as a mark of his gratitude, a thousand pounds took shape to deck the village church.

That was before Jack Sedge's time. When he was born the cross had marked the highest point in the county for a matter of twenty years, and, after its golden novelty had staled, he didn't so much as crane his neck for more than three decades. Moreover, it didn't occur to him until he was forty-five that he could do happy things with a thousand pounds. He had been used to budgeting for the necessities of life on a weekly exchequer of thirty shillings, and a thousand pounds would merely have left him dazed with puzzlement. But, suddenly, in middle age, he took occasion to tilt back his head in the shadow of the old church steeple.

As he gazed upwards his first sensation was one of nausea. Even at reasonable heights he had always been subject to this feeling of sick giddiness, and the sight of a humn being with the whole sky for a setting turned his stomach queasy.

He imagined himself in that steeplejack's shoes, with only a ladder, a flimsy ladder to hold on to, up there, high up, maybe half-a-mile by the look of it, and the wind blowing, the steeple-rocking, rocking, dizzily....

The landlord of the Dun Cow said: "You're come all over white, Jack. Feeling queer?" "Ar," said Jack: "Half-noggin o' whiskey."

He had a job to keep from shuddering. Later, he forgot about the steeplejack and thought of the cross, the glittering, flashing cross of St. Ethelbert's. An idea had popped into his head, quick as a stoat, hesitating like, and with that same inquiring look that you say in the beastie's eye, sort of on its toes, alert. He didn't like the look of that idea, and then, afterwards, he did. Eight pounds the cross weighed, so 'twas said, and a thousand pounds was the worth of it. A thousand pounds, Jack Sedge, and you-up there with a hacksaw, oh? At dead of night

Ah, that was the beauty of that nation; dead of night. If you couldn't see: if you couldn't look down and see the sheer of that tower, you couldn't get sick, and that was certain. A right notion, that, and no galsnaying it. Yes, he liked the look of that. Now just fancy him, Jack Sedge, getting an idea to make away with the cross!

He'd have to tell Nellie. He thought about it up and down, inside and out, and every which-way he came at it led him to this: that he'd have to tell Nellie. Nellie was a terrible light sleeper; and, any-way, he'd always told her everything, everything. She'd just have to knuckle down to it, that was all; she'd just have to bide quiet, keep mum, and put on that simple look, that stony look. Have to, that was certain.

He felt in high good fettle as he walked home. He bent a kind look on the dog-brier blooming in the hedge, on the young sheep in Farmer Illife's field. Yes, just like a stoat that notion had popped into his cranium, and there it was, a peeping at him like a friend, its eyes all bright and heady. What a lovely day; what a handsome sonny day, all pleasant with the sun, and the colours of the flowers. Things were turning out fine and large for him all at once.

He could saw the cross up, melt it down, sell it piecemeal in the next county, in the next county to that, ay, and further afield by many a mile. Careful, that's how he'd go, careful as a honey-bee, and Nellie could have some gowns, a new dresser with divided drawers: no end to the things, she could have, and that was true as the Ten Commandments.

It was awkward, telling Nellie. Not, mark you, that she was one for prayers and psalm-singing; but, she was straight in her ways, straight to a penny, to a tatty-peeling as you might say, and able to look in every next pair of eyes clear and true. Well, awkward or not awkward, she'd have to know, and she's have to abide by it. Up that steeple he'd be to-night like a long-dog, and down he'd come heavy-laden, sure as sunset.

"What would you say to a thousand pounds, lass?" He came out with it like that, straight away, no shilly-shallying, and she started at him as if he'd gone daft in the head, and then she laughed. "Eh, get your dinner, you great lout," she said, "and don't talk so senseless."

"Not so senseless, at that," he came back. "Look out at the back door, look up, and see him a-shining there, all bright and handsome."

She didn't grasp it, not at first. But when she looked out at the back door, and looked up, a cry came from her; for it was like knives in her heart to think what he was planning, when she came in her eyes had gone big with fear, and there was a grey look about her lips; and she plumped down in a chair and shook with the shivers.

"No," she said, and shook her head, and put up her hand as if fending off the horrors. "No, not that, Jack! You wouldn't do a thing like that. I never was one of parson's flock; never did hold with praising the Lord in public, but that isn't to say as I haven't a proper respect. That cross was set up there for the Lord God, and it's His'n, and He'd damn the soul of any mortal as laid a thieving hand on it. I'd sooner see you struck dead, Jack, than a-climbing up the ladder!"

But Jack was set on it, hard and fast. "You can talk of parsons and praising the Lord and jamming of souls till you're black 'f the face, lass," he said. "It won't budge me. And if you ask me why, I'll say as the Lord 'ud be content with a wooden cross. It's likely enough as He don't want that gold thing up there when the worth of it could be doing good work in the world; not He nor St. Ethelbert neither."

"That's not for you to say, Jack Sedge. It's for you to walk straight and conduct yourself decent. I don't know what's come over you. I never did hear o' such goings on. I wonder you a'n't afraid—afraid."

She began to whimper. She came across to him and whimpered, and her shaking fingers touched his cheeks, his neck, his hair, in an access of love and fear. They

Colourful Scarves For Summer

Paris.

THE importance of suits for summer naturally makes scarves more necessary than ever. Also, collarless coats add to the possibilities of scarves that give you a new colour accent with every change-about. There are prints on dark, bright or light grounds, with stripes, checks, dots, floral patterns or small geometrics as patterns. Dull finish soft silk crepes are smartest, with, of course, tie silk scarves well to the fore. Solid colour scarves can be very gay in the new accident colours, such as orange, purple, coral and yellowish-greens. These are just meant to be worn with the new natural suit and coat colours, such as beige and gray.

EVENING HATS AGAIN

EVENING hats are back in the fashion picture, and that is good news. You will make a grand entrance, with every hair in place, thanks to your cap or bonnet, that will resist taxi breezes.

Storing Furs In The Summer

ARE you putting away your furs for the summer? Then send them to the cleaners first, and save them from the moths. Or try these home methods.

For dark furs, rub hot bran well into the skins, leave it on for half an hour, then shake, brush, and comb them. Or wring a soft cloth out in a pint of water to which a tablespoonful of ammonia has been added, and stroke the fur firmly with it, constantly changing the cloth. When clean, hang up to dry.

White and light-coloured furs can be cleaned by being sprinkled with finely powdered starch and rubbed with tiny wads of tissue paper. Never wet them.

SMART ECONOMIC DRESSING

ONE coat and skirt—and half a dozen tunics—is suggested for economical and smart dressing.

Modern Triangle Scarves

Paris.

TRIANGLES and squares adapt themselves best to the new ways of wearing scarves, but the long, straight scarf is still with us. If your scarf is of taffeta and checked or plaided, it is bound to be youthful, and will be more so if you tie it in with a bow with one loop tickling your right ear. Cowl and draped effects are smart because they bundle you up at the neck and are a cool way to achieve a very high neckline. Scarves that match coat linings are the final word in ensembles that are sure to register. These scarves came with the coat, of course, and therefore there are loops provided for slipping the scarf through and tying it inside or outside.

FEATHERS IN FAVOUR

Paris.

IT'S high treason to appear these days in fashionable circles without feathers sprouting somewhere from your costume. You can do Schiaparelli, or the feather cape the bird tricks, advocated by things launched by Molyneux.

Cool Blouses.

Paris.

COOL, looking blouses, with a fresh crisp air are perfect complements for new summer suits. And this being a grand and glorious suit season, blouses are tremendously important.

White Chiffon Scarves.

Paris.

GREAT big chiffon scarves that cover the shoulders completely and tie in front are really little capes that add just the necessary extra "something" for evening and cocktail wear. Plain white is best with white frocks, but the pastels can be a lot of charming contrasting, such as pale pink with baby blue, or Nile green with pale yellow. There are prints, too, in delicate colourings on white or pastel grounds. Tiny cowboy squares of chiffon, in gay prints, can be worn with suits or coats, and even sports costume, depending upon the colour and design.

LINEN BLOUSES WITH A TAILORED SUIT.

LINEN, of course, plays a big part in this business of blouses. A linen blouse with a tailored suit, and there you are, quite complete in every detail. Linen blouses are smart, whether white, pastel, bright or dark shades. And they tailor beautifully.

HOBBLE DAY SKIRTS

DAY skirts are undoubtedly nearer the "hobble" than they have been the cross cutting, flat pleats, or, sometimes, a wrap-over enables us to walk in them with ease. Waistlets are suggested by baroque, fullness in the upper part of the bodice, and other artful devices—including the "dressey" sleeve.

Did You Ever Eat Orange Bread?
BAKE IT! It's that "different" dish your family enjoys!

Here's the answer to that eternal question: What can I serve that's new? Orange Bread is delicious and if you use Royal Baking Powder it will keep fresh and moist for several days. If you haven't Royal in the house, get a can from your grocer to-day.

Boil together for about 15 minutes the peel from 2 seedless oranges, chopped fine, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup of sugar, and 1 cup of water, until it makes a thin syrup. Cool. Add 1 cup of water; add 2 tablespoons of melted shortening and 1 egg well beaten. Sift 3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder with 2 cups of flour, and add to the above mixture. Mix thoroughly. Bake in a greased loaf pan, in a moderate oven for about 1½ hours. Makes one loaf, at a cost of less than 12 cts.

BAKING HINTS.

Orange Bread may be baked immediately, or covered and kept in a cool place for several hours until ready to bake. For smooth top on loaf, brush with melted butter or milk before baking, and again just before taking from the oven.

A number of variations of this recipe using nuts and fruits, will be found in the Royal Cook Book. Write for a copy. It is FREE.

BOB WYATT DOUBTS

Wyatt, who was selected to skipper the England eleven in the first Test in succession to D. R. Jardine, was unfortunately hit while batting in the Test Trial at Lord's.
After being forced to retire from the field, it was discovered that there was a slight fracture on the top of the thumb.
Wyatt was later pronounced unfit and C. F. Walters, the Worcester skipper, was given the leadership of the side.

RECREIO DEFEAT KOWLOON DOCKS

CRAIGENGOWER DOUBLE POLICE TOTAL

SILKSTONE SCORES SIX BUT DEAKIN GOES ONE BETTER

FIELDING a comparatively weak team, the Tai-koo Docks R.C. provided the sensation in the First Division of the Lawn Bowls League yesterday by defeating the Craigengower C.C. "B" by a margin of three shots. Visiting the Kowloon Docks the Club de Recreio also scored a surprising victory, while the C.C.C. "A" came away from the Police green with exactly double the Police score. The K.B.G.C., the champions, were not engaged.

In the Junior Division the champions, Craigengower, provided the feature by defeating the Police to give the Indian R.C.
first place. The Kowloon C.C. also played up to form to defeat the strong Civil Servants team at Happy Valley, recording their second victory in seven games.

TWO "7" SHOTS WERE SCORED IN YESTERDAY'S MATCHES. J.
DEAKIN (C.C.C.) PERFORMING THE FEAT AGAINST A. E. SILK-
STONE (K.C.C.) TO WIN BY 22 SHOTS TO 21—SILKSTONE, HOWEVER, HAD SCORED A "6" ON THE PREVIOUS HEAD—AND R. WALLACE (TAIKOO DOCKS) WENT AGAINST C. SUMMONS (C.C.C. "B") TO WIN BY 20 SHOTS TO 19.

GUTHRIE WINS SENIOR T.T. AT ISLE OF MAN

NORTON AVERAGES 78 M.P.H.

Magnificent Effort In Rain And Fog.

London, Yesterday.

Repeating his performance in the Junior Tourist Trophy, last Monday, Jimmy Guthrie, on a Norton machine, yesterday won the most coveted motor-cycle road-racing trophy in the world, the Senior Trophy. His average speed was 78.01 m.p.h. for the 264-mile Isle of Man course.

The veteran rider, Jimmy Simpson, who secured first place in the Lightweight T.T. on Wednesday, was second on a Norton at a speed of 75.27 m.p.h., while W. Rusk was third, on a Velocette at a speed of 73.27 m.p.h.

Bad weather conditions made the race more hazardous than ever, and many spills occurred on the tortuous corners.
Lap after lap the retirements grew, but the remaining riders maintained the terrific speed despite fog and rain. Speeds of 120 m.p.h. were reached down the Mountain straight while many of the riders roared round Hillberry Corner at over 75 m.p.h.
Considerable interest was centered on several foreign machines entered in the race, but all failed to stand up to the gruelling pace set by the riders of British machines who have remained unbeaten on the Manx course, in the senior race, since 1912.—British Wireless Service.

LAWN TENNIS LEAGUE CARD FOR THE WEEK

Second Round Of The Mixed Doubles.

CLUB EXPECTED TO ATTEND CHAMPIONS

One round of the Mixed Doubles Lawn Tennis League matches has already been completed, and tomorrow the teams will play in the same order as on May 14.
The Chinese Recreation Club, last year's champions, will visit the Kowloon Cricket Club, and the K.C.C. are expected to record an overwhelming victory.
The United Services, who are now red-hot favourites for the title they won in 1932, should have no little difficulty with the Ladies' R.C. as they had with the Chinese last week. In two matches the L.R.C. have secured only one point, for a draw with the C.R.C., and have won only 5 of 18 sets.

Club v Chinese

No very even matches can be expected in the "A" Division this week, the closest, perhaps, will be the encounter between the champions, the Chinese Recreation Club, and the Hong Kong Cricket Club.
The C.R.C. should win, but only after a hard struggle.

Test For Champions

The "B" Division League shows a similar lack of exciting contests to that of the "A" Division, most of the teams being well separated in the League Tables. The best match will probably be witnessed at Causeway Bay, where the champions, who are undefeated this season, will meet the vastly improved University team.

"Needle" Junior Game

The best match in the "C" Division League on Friday is expected to be between the Craigengower Cricket Club and the holders, the Chinese Recreation Club.
These teams are both undefeated in the League, and a close contest is expected, the final placings at the end of the season largely depending on this meeting.

The following is this week's lawn tennis league programme:

BROWN REACHES THREE FIGURES

London, Yesterday.
Northants, one of the weaker counties, did extremely well yesterday to hold the Australians to a draw at Northampton. At the close of play they were 198 runs in arrears with only one wicket in hand.
W. A. Brown, probably the keenest member of the touring team, carried his overnight score of 73 to 113 to register his second century of the season; while Matthews secured 5 for 87 to give him 9 for 158 in the match.
Bakewell, a former England opening batsman, and Timms, were the only two to offer resistance to the wiles of Fleetwood Smith, and it was due solely to their dogged efforts that Northants were able to force a draw.

In the course of their 12 matches in England to date the Australians have won six and drawn six.
They have beaten Worcestershire, Essex, Middlesex, Oxford University, Cambridge University, their most recent victims being England in the Test Match.

They have drawn with Surrey, Lancashire, Hampshire, the M.C.C., Leicestershire, and Northamptonshire.
Yesterday they commenced their match against the Gentlemen of England at Lord's and on Friday they will commence the Second Test on the same ground.
Scores as cabled by Reuter were:
Australia: 284 (W. H. Ponsford 56, D. G. Bradman 65, A. Chipper-field 71, Matthews 4 for 71).
234 (W. A. Brown 113, Matthews
5 for 87).
Northamptonshire: 187 (A. W. Snow-don 105).
133 for 9 (Bakewell 53, Timms 50,
L. Fleetwood Smith 5 for 29).

CARNERA WORTH
£27,102

Max Baer Wins Crown
And £9,034.

HEAVYWEIGHT BOXING
RECEIPTS

New York, Yesterday.
Primo Carnera received £27,102 and Max Baer £9,034 for their world heavyweight boxing championship bout on Thursday night, which Baer won by a technical knock-out in the eleventh round.
Jack Dempsey, promoter of the bout, released Baer from his contract for 7.5 per cent.—Reuter.
Carnera's contract stated that he,
as champion, was entitled to 37½ per cent. of the gate receipts, and Max Baer 12½ per cent. Dempsey, former world champion, was to receive 7½ per cent. for his activities in promoting the contract with Baer and Ancil Hoffman, the new champion's manager. The remaining 42½ per cent. went to the Madison Square Garden Corporation.
Taking into consideration his $10,000 for the post of M.C. at a cabaret on the same night he won the title, Baer received approximately £11,034 and the world title, which is invaluable, as the result of his win.

Cotoneaster's Win In Great Jubilee Handicap

Kempton Park.
The Prime Minister, Mr.
Ramsay MacDonald, attended a race meeting here for the first time in his life, coming with their Majesties, King and Queen and Mr. J. H. Thomas, Dominions secretary, to see the running of the Great Jubilee Handicap.
E. T. Thornton-Smith's four-year old Cotoneaster won over the 1½ mile course, with Sir Wyndham Porter's Blue Boy second and Lord Durham's Scarlet Tigress third in the field of fourteen. Cotoneaster, at 10-1, won by a neck.

SUSSEX WIN SEVENTH GAME

LONDON, YESTERDAY:

THE RETURN TO FORM OF WALLY HAMMOND, ENGLAND'S NO. 3 BATSMAN, G. O. ALLEN'S FINE DEBUT FOR MID-DLESEX AFTER HIS OPERATION, THE CONSISTENCY OF PATSY HENDREN, ENGLAND'S NO. 6 BATSMAN, AND THE FURTHER EVIDENCE OF HAROLD LARWOOD'S RE-TURN TO FITNESS WERE THE MOST STRIKING FEATURES OF THE COUNTY CRICKET PROGRAMME WHICH CON-CLUDED YESTERDAY.

Allen was reported as not likely to play this season, following an operation for appendicitis, but it appears as if his mother has now been persuaded to allow him to play. A member of Jardine's team in Australia, his 112 not out against Glamorgan, coupled with his fast bowling abilities, for which he is primarily played, should see him very much in the running for recognition for the Lord's Test on Friday.

BOWES, THE YORKSHIRE FAST BOWLER AND ONE OF THE SELECTED FOURTEEN FOR THE FIRST TEST, MAY SECURE HIS PLACE AT LORD'S AS THE RESULT OF HIS 6 FOR 28 AGAINST LEI-CESTER.

As in the two previous seasons, Sussex, hope of the South, have commenced their County Championship matches with a string of victories. Yesterday they secured their seventh win in eleven matches by beating Surrey at Horsham.

Kent staged a good recovery
after several setbacks by beating Worcester, and, having played as many games, are now leading Yorkshire by 12 points as runners-up to Sussex.

Results as cabled by Reuter
were:
At Tonbridge, Kent beat Worcester by 178 runs.
Kent: 344 and 304 for 6 dec.
Worcester: 278 and 192.

At Derby, Derbyshire took first innings points from Gloucester.
Gloucester: 209 and 207 (Hammond 134).
Derby: 336 and 93 for 0.

At Horsham, Sussex beat Surrey by 9 wickets.
Surrey: 280 and 224.
Sussex: 452 for 5 dec. (J. Parks 122, John Langridge 160).
54 for 1 wicket.

Earlier Results:
At Lord's, Middlesex beat Glamorgan by an innings and 112 runs.
Middlesex: 476 for 6 dec. (Hendren
114, Hulme 108, G. O. Allen 112 not out).
Glamorgan: 102 and 202.

At Southampton, Lancashire beat Hampshire by 9 wickets.
Hants: 241 and 159 (Hopwood 6 for 45).
Lancs: 367 and 44 for 1.

At Westcliff, Notts beat Essex by 145 runs.
Notts: 371 (A. W. Carr 107).
157 for 9 dec. (P. Smith 5 for 48).
Essex: 134 (Larwood 5 for 50) and 130.

At Huddersfield, Yorkshire beat
Leicester by 10 wickets.
Leicester: 82 (Bowes 6 for 23) and 127.
Yorkshire: 201 and 11 for no wicket.

HONG KONG A VITAL AIR LINK

America Leads In Battle For Colony's Mails But Britain Holds Hand Of Trumps

(By A. M. CRAWLEY)

The word air-minded ought to be in red letters in every English dictionary. Have you ever thought out what it means—beyond a vague idea that it has something to do with looping in the air and being prepared to breakfast in London and lunch in Berlin?

Trains are so good and distances so small in England that air-mindedness is not necessary. "When flying is really safe and cheap and I can land on the roof of my house without the fuss and bother of aerodromes—then, and not till then, will I take up flying" is the attitude of 90 per cent. of the population.

It means just this: That while we sit and wait, smugly satisfied that a few of our experts and masters of technique can turn out the best machines in the world, the Toms, Dicks, and Harries of every other country are roaming the earth seizing the opportunities of the future, establishing themselves, and getting monopolies at all the vantage points of the new airways.

Vital Link

This race for the control of the world air routes will not wait until you can land on your roof top. It is going on now, and England, a year ago left at the post, has still got an enormous distance to make up.

The secret of air-mindedness is the map. Like Gilbert's sea-lord in "Pinafore" really air-minded men "just stick to their desks" and study geography.

If more Englishmen had studied geography for the last ten years they would have noticed the position of Hong Kong a British possession and a vital link for all air routes to the Far East, a strategic link with our old and trusted ally—Japan.

Instead, the Americans looked at the map, and American companies have got a monopoly of all air services and mails in China.

From Los Angeles to Hong Kong the great air liners of the future will all carry Stars and Stripes.

Singapore. But there is still time to use the advantages of Hong Kong. Imperial Airways, by the courtesy of the Siamese Government, have got an unlimited extension of the right to land at Bangkok on their route to Singapore.

Their tender for the Bangkok mails is in a fair way to being accepted as against the Dutch and French.

America Leads

And Bangkok is in the direct line of the round the world air route, the starting place for the last undeveloped link, the hop via Hanoi to Hong Kong.

If Imperial Airways can get the right to carry the Hong Kong mails (which are at the disposition of the Legislative Assembly of that Colony) they will be in a position to bargain with France and Siam for the right to establish a line across their territory linking England and China.

At this moment a great battle for the mails at Hong Kong is being fought by the air tradesmen of the world, with America in the van.

But air-mindedness is not confined to airmen. Outside Europe consuls, ministers, and ambassadors are hammering out, bargaining and haggling for air routes, just as their predecessors did for the command of the sea in the 17th century. And in this new diplomacy Great Britain holds a great hand of trumps.

Trade Chances

On almost every line of communication Britain territory has to be crossed somewhere. If France were to refuse to allow British aeroplanes to cross Indo-China, Britain could retaliate by refusing the French aeroplanes passage across India.

In return for the right to land at Bangkok, Siam has been granted the right to fly to Singapore.

British officials are alive to the situation. These negotiations and the contemplated purchase of Timor show that. But what of our business men? What of the trade, the advertising which is to be done along these great air routes?

Place after place which up till now have been small market towns, some of them mere jungle villages are coming on to the map as commercial centres.

Hanoi the capital of Tonkin, a small state in French Indo-China, is a large-sized village with mud huts and thatched roofs—and a tawdry palace. There is only one road to it.

New Industry

But the French are already building a great aerodrome there in preparation for the Hong Kong line. They have laid the foundations of a hotel, and produced a booklet of the sights to be seen and the sports to be held in the neighbourhood.

A great new tourist industry is rapidly being developed from Calcutta to the coast of Japan. Saigon, the capital of French Indo-China itself, has been transformed into a miniature Paris of the East, with casinos and restaurants of the very best French cooking.

At Angkor, the next stop on the route to Bangkok, the French have cleared a landing-ground in the jungle and built a vast modern hotel within three miles of the world-famous ruins.

Round it is a village of straw-thatched huts, yet the hotel is already making money.

Local Line

At Bangkok the Government is spending £1,000,000 on an aerodrome. Since there are no roads in Siam, outside the towns, the State runs a local air line over the country.

The man in charge is a Canadian named Jackson. He got his job by looking at the map.

WISE & OTHERWISE

Motor-cars are increasing by leaps and bounds. Pedestrians are surviving by the same process.

The best way to keep milk from turning sour is to keep it in the cow.

The Difference

In the old days young men used to pass examinations. Now all they try to pass is the car in front.

All at Sea

There was a young lady of Leigh
Who invited a sailor to teigh.
She did him so grand
That he asked for her hand,
And now the poor chap's all at seigh.

A retired business man has bought an old railway carriage and installed it as a summer-house in his garden. It must be thrilling to stroll leisurely down the path with the certainty of getting a corner seat.

Egotism and mumps are very much alike, except that the swelling shows in different places.

A writer says that there are some expressions that one rarely hears outside the Stock Exchange. Others—such as "Have you heard this one?"—are frequently heard in other places as well.

Racing Query

"What happens to old, broken-down horses?"
They run in races and we back them.

In a fire at a French cheese factory over 14,000 cheeses were spoiled. We imagine that people living in the neighbourhood won't order Welsh rarebit in restaurants for quite a long while.

The latest theory is that plants can communicate with one another. We have a suspicion that the vegetables in the garden tell each other stories, and the rather broad beans make the runners scarlet.

Income

Something it's hard to live with-in, but harder still to live without.

Some people are not content with being treated well; they want to be treated often.

One day recently a large black cat on a lead accompanied a woman shopping in North London. We understand that the animal had the grace to look thoroughly ashamed of itself when its owner purchased several mouse-traps.

Don't cry over spilt milk—there's probably quite enough water in it already.

"My wife has never called to see me at my office," says a business man. He should engage a prettier typist.

There is always room for the man who can be relied on to deliver the goods when he said he would.

TO OUR POLICYHOLDERS, —

Of the 392 legal-reserve life insurance companies in the U.S.A. and Canada that are listed by "Best's," the foremost life insurance rating-manual, 93 are rated "A." ("Best's" rating, as explained by themselves, is "from the policyholders' viewpoint—not the stockholder's or yet the agent's." The fact that a Company is rated below "A" does not mean, necessarily, that it is not a good Company, or that its policyholders' security is, in any sense, impaired; it means only that "Best's" consider the policyholders' security and investment advantages lesser in such a Company than in the Company of class "A.")

Among the 93 "A" Companies, only 3 of them—1 Canadian and 2 American—increased in 1932 in all respects,—insurance in force, new insurance effected, assets, and surplus,—over 1931. Your Company was among the select 3 of the highest ranking 93.

Not more than 3 grade-"A" Companies out of the total of 392 listed Companies increased in 1932 and 1933. Of this possible total of 3, thus far we know of only 1 Company which increased annually in all respects during these two years,—that Company which again surpassed, in 1933, the new insurance issued, insurance in force, assets, and surplus of the preceding years, in your Company, the CROWN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

TENDERS FOR ROAD
REPAIRS.New Quarters At Peak
Wireless Station.

Tenders are invited by the Public Works Department for the erection of Chinese quarters at the Peak Wireless Station, closing at noon on June 25.

Tenders for the maintenance, repair etc., of roads in the Colony from September 1 1934, to August 1, 1935, are invited by the Public Works Department.

The tender includes maintenance, repair, and minor extensions or alterations of roads, streets, bridges, public cemeteries, recreation grounds, and relative works in Hong Kong, Kowloon and the New Territories.

Tenders are also invited for the maintenance of nullahs, sewers, drains etc., in the Colony for the same period.

AIR LINK

like Itangoon, Penang, Singapore, in villages like Alor Star and Akyah, new hotels, new shops and new people are springing up like mushrooms.

But the proprietors are Germans, Swedes, Dutch and French. Hardly one is an Englishman.

Kulala Lumpur, the capital of Malaya, has insisted that aeroplanes should call there as a matter of prestige. No city which hopes to retain its importance can afford to do without their service.

At Jodpur, in India, the Maharajah built the best modern hotel in the country, and his town at once became a calling place for Dutch, French and British aeroplanes. His hotel does a thriving business.

The opportunities for trade are incalculable. Where grass grows twelve inches in a week on aerodromes hundreds of yards square, there is a large demand for mowing machines. They ought to be British.

Jobs For Pilot

When all but the heaviest of spare parts can be carried economically by air, there need be no lack of service in the motor industry, and the American overseas monopoly of that trade should now at last be broken.

Contrary to belief, Europeans do not like tropical fruits. An enterprising cannery will supply the deficiency in the future with Empire and tinned goods.

In the web-like development of local airways which has already begun there will be careers for hundreds of young pilots at salaries of not less than a £1,000 a year.

New tourist agencies are needed to exploit the untapped wealth of scenery and places of historical interest in the Empire. There is enormous scope for advertising.

We Want Men

The French and Americans are doing it. The Dutch are doing it. Tourist traffic for the Dutch East Indies has more than doubled since the airways were opened.

What about England? The pilots, the expert engineers cannot win England first place in the new air world on their own.

Our machines are as punctual as the French and more comfortable. They will soon be as fast as the Dutch. But the people on the ground are not in the right place or are not air-minded.

We want men who are prepared to take a chance, who are prepared

MARCUS SHOW TOO
POPULARJapanese Secure
Deportation.NEW REVUE AT QUEEN'S THEATRE TO-NIGHT

That the Marcus Show's deportation from Japan was more or less a matter of opposition from Japanese showmen, who were not participating in the profits of the sensational receipts, bringing pressure to bear on the Home Office, is intimated by the British-owned Kobe Chronicle in the remark "perhaps the Marcus Show was too successful."

An account of the big show's departure from Japan, as viewed by Burton Crane, Tokyo correspondent of the American theatrical weekly, appears below. The article was published in Variety of May 8. (By BURTON CRANE)

Tokyo, April 21.

The entire foreign community of Japan is as mad as a turpentine cut. Hands-across-the-sea stuff is being liberally oh-yehed. Preparations for 88th anniversary of Commodore Perry's arrival on these shores is proceeding apace, with an obligato written in the Bronx. Cause of which is the deportation of the A. B. Marcus Show.

Every pressure possible was brought to bear on the Home Ministry to change the order, but no go. Marcus revue broke every gate record the country had ever known.

Last day, the show played to a few more than 10,000 persons in a 2,952-seat house, giving only two performances. Evening finale is historic. The curtain could not go down. Some of those on the runway were dragged off, holsted on shoulders, and paraded in jerks up the jammed aisles. Stagehands swarmed on the stage, shaking hands with every member of the company. Audience got the fever and the engagement ended with the audience coming up over the foot lights to shake hands, trying to express in broken English just how sorry they were.

Technical aspects of the deportation are: Acts playing in Japan must give evidence that they will not become public charges. With big companies, this means that theatres must post guarantees. Naturally, no theatre likes to guarantee for more time than it has booked. The Nippon Gekijo accordingly guaranteed only one month,—from Feb. 23 to Mar. 28 and, when the engagement was extended to April 15, got an extension merely for that period.

Meanwhile, the Shochiku organization decided that it would book the revue for Nagoya (two weeks) and Osaka (four weeks) and undertook to get a further visa extension. But the officials refused to extend, declaring that more than one extension would be illegal.

Marcus had planned to open at the Grand, Shanghai, on June 1. Now must take a smaller theatre, the Strand, from April 26, sailed yesterday, with several thousand well-wishers at the boat.

Change Of Programme

To-day the Marcus Show will present their second revue, "Broadway Merry-Go-Round", which constitutes a complete change of programme, at the Queen's Theatre, commencing at 6.15 p.m. and 9.30 p.m.

to leave England with a few pounds in their pocket and a job ahead which offers no pension, and in which success depends solely on their own initiative.

And above all, we must put "air-minded" in the dictionary and educate our children with the map.

A HOME WITHOUT
'ASPRO'
MEANS GREAT RISK FOR EVERY MEMBER

If "ASPRO" is not in your home, it should be, in YOUR interest. It should be there to dispel attacks of pain, it should be there to break up colds and influenza when they first appear — it should be there as a guarantee of sweet sleep to the sleepless. "ASPRO" is not just a soother of pain in 5 to 10 minutes. Its mission is far greater and deeper, for it dispels the cause of the pain and so prevents the development of serious illness. Its service in reducing feverishness is of great moment. Keep "ASPRO" in the house and you keep out illness as well as soothing away pain. These are facts demonstrated by thousands. A trial will demonstrate it to you, too. "ASPRO" Tablets are easy to take — there are no harmful after-effects — they create no craving — no nausea — no digestive troubles — they just do their work of soothing away the pain and of dispelling or dissolving the cause, leaving Nature to go unhindered in her great progress of activity, healing and expression. "ASPRO" not only stops the pain, but it saves your money — it enables you to work when otherwise you could not have worked — it is the medicine of the new age — safe, sure and effective. It stands up to all claims made for it. "ASPRO" stops illness and stops pain.

"ASPRO" DOES NOT HARM THE HEART
It Can Be Taken at any Time — Anywhere
Always Keep "Aspro" handy for Emergency

What 'ASPRO' Does:

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1 It Stops Violent Head aches in 5 to 10 minutes | 9 A hot lemon drink with 2 or 3 'ASPRO' Tablets will smash up a Cold or 'Flu' attack in one night. |
| 2 It Brings Sweet Sleep to the Sleepless. | 10 It Reduces Temperature in 5 minutes. |
| 3 It Relieves Rheumatism at night. | 11 It can be taken at any time, in Train, at Home, at Business — anywhere, everywhere. |
| 4 It Relieves Children's Growing Pains | 12 It gives the greatest relief ever known to women at their times of periodical depression. |
| 5 It Saves many a Sound Tooth by Removing Toothache. | 13 It Stops the Ill After-Effects of Alcohol. |
| 6 It Brings Relief without causing sickness, indigestion or a craving. | 14 It relieves Dengue and Malaria by reducing the fever. |
| 7 It Stops Pain without harming the Heart | 15 As a Gargle, 'ASPRO' is wonderful for Sore Throats, Tonsillitis, etc. |
| 8 It soothes away Irritability | |

Before You Leave Home
Don't Forget Your
'ASPRO'

You leave home as "it as a fiddle" but never know the moment when fate will prove unkind in the form of a headache—neuralgia or nerve pains, or maybe it will be a rheumatic attack. The slightest derangement of your nervous system may make you feel "nervy" or irritable. The night of an accident may upset you for the day. In crowds germ contamination may place you in the quick grip of a cold or influenza. The best protection for such emergency is to make certain that you put a few 'ASPRO' Tablets in your pocket or purse BEFORE YOU LEAVE HOME.

Give 'Aspro' A Trial

Try 'Aspro' to day. It promises you not to fail. Millions of people have proved how safe, effective and useful it is. It costs little—it saves much. Always keep 'Aspro' in your home pocket or purse.

'ASPRO' is Woman's Best Friend

Possibly the greatest users of 'ASPRO' are women, for whom 'ASPRO' has a special charm on account of the varied periodical experiences with which all women are familiar. They surely know just what a wonderful soother and pain dispeller 'ASPRO' is. Millions of women throughout the World now regularly take 'ASPRO' the safe, sure and effective medicine, to relieve their pain and accompanying physical depression who before had to resort to dangerous drugs, narcotics or opiates. The understanding woman uses 'ASPRO'.

DRYDEN—On June 16, 1934, at the French Hospital, Mr. William Dryden in his 68th year, late 2nd Engineer S.S. "Halving", Douglas Steamship Co., Ltd. Funeral will pass Monument at 4 p.m. to-day.

NEW GERMAN CONSUL-GENERAL FOR SHANGHAI

Lt. Col. H. Kriebel In Hong Kong.

FRIEND OF HERR HITLER

The new German Consul-General at Shanghai, Lt. Col. Hermann Kriebel, arrived in the Colony yesterday on board the Hamburg-American m.s. "Duisburg" on his way to Shanghai to take up his post.

The distinguished visitor, who was met by a large crowd of the local German community, declined to make any statement to the Press.

Lt. Col. Hermann Kriebel was in China previously from 1929 to August, 1933, acting as military adviser to the Chinese National Government at Nanking.

Born in Gernersheim (Palatinat) in 1876, the son of the Major General Kriebel, he was educated in the Bavarian Cadet Corps. Prior to joining the army as an officer he studied history at the Munich University. Herr Kriebel entered the war as captain and was finally transferred to the staff of the General Headquarters. In this capacity he took part in the Armistice negotiations at Spa.

Has Hitler's Confidence.

Soon after the war Herr Kriebel was prominently active in the national movement of Chief of Staff of the Bavarian Citizens Defence Corps, created to suppress the "Red" terrorism in Munich. He was one of the first to get in touch with Herr Adolf Hitler, who entrusted him immediately with important missions in the National Socialist organisation. He also took a leading part in the national uprising at Munich on November 8, 1923, where he was at the side of Herr Hitler during the march to the "Feldherrnhalle" in Munich on the November 9.

Incarcerated With Hitler.

On account of this participation he was sentenced to five years' confinement to the fortress of Landsberg, where Herr Hitler also served his sentence. At Christmas, 1924, Kriebel was released together with Herr Hitler.

In the following years Herr Kriebel was an administrator of a large estate in Austria until the year 1929, when he took up his appointment with the National Government in Nanking.

Foundation Stone Laid By Bishop Hall

All Saints' Church's New Hall And School

"CAMPAIGN AGAINST OPIUM, GAMBLING, AND SEXUAL VICE"

A LARGE gathering of European and Chinese parishioners were present yesterday at the laying of the foundation stone of the new School and Church Hall of the All Saints' Church, Homantin, Kowloon, by the Right Rev. Ronald Hall, Bishop of Hong Kong.

The building, which is situated at the rear of the Church, occupies a large area of ground and, although, in its incomplete form, reveals the promise of a very fine addition to the Church grounds. It is hoped that it will be completed by August.

The clergy who took part in the service were Bishop Hall, the Rev. J. R. Higgins, Vicar of St. Andrew's Church, Archdeacon Mok Shau Tsang, Rev. Tsang Kee Ngok, Rev. Lee Kau Yan and Rev. F. S. Tso, while among the large gathering of parishioners and friends were Miss E. S. Atkins, principal of St. Stephen's Girls' College, Miss Dr. K. Woo, Miss Elliott, of the Y.W.C.A., Miss L. C. Blanchett, Miss M. A. Jennings and Messrs. Y. L. Siu, W. H. Young, M. K. Cheng, K. C. Tsang, K. K. Lam, S. K. Wong and D. P. Wong, members of the vestry.

An impressive service was conducted in Chinese with prayers and hymns preceding the laying of the foundation stone ceremony.

The bishop in laying his hand on the stone said:

"O Lord Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, who art the brightness of the Father's Glory, and the express image of His Person, the one Foundation, and the chief Corner Stone; bless what we now do in laying this Stone in Thy name, and be Thou, we beseech Thee, the beginning, the increase, and the consummation of this our work, which is undertaken to the glory of Thy Name, who with the Father and the Holy Spirit livest and reignest, one God, world without end."

Amen.

"In the Faith of Jesus Christ, we place this Stone, in the name of God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost."

Amen.

Bishop's Address

The Bishop in his address said: "One of the greatest tasks of the Church of Christ in China is to help in the campaign against opium, gambling, and sexual vice."

"I pray God this new Hall which you are building will help you and all Kowloon in this task. The primary reason why men gamble, smoke opium, and do other bad things is more often than not because they are bored, and do not know what to do with their spare time."

"When we were children in England we used to sing a hymn, 'Satan always finds some work for idle hands to do.' Reformers make a bad mistake when they believe this to be a moral problem, but more often than not the people have not been shown what to do with their spare time."

"You will be interested to know that with the coming of the cinematograph and picture houses to England drinking has practically died out. Instead of drinking young men now go to the pictures."

Better Conditions Now

"We wish the pictures were a great deal better, but they have already done some good. My father's generation spent their time persuading people to take the pledge to become total abstainers. Men and women of this generation are building better homes for the workers, and are helping to provide them with gardens, wireless sets, and other means of recreation, so that they may find a better way of occupying their spare time."

"It is right to persuade men and women, who have become victims to gambling, to opium and to sexual vice, to make a pledge to God to give it up. It is wrong, however, to stop there. It is better to go on and put some other interest in the place that has been made empty."

"That is why I am glad to see this Church Hall here, and I want in future to see it a centre of many leisure activities where old and young may help one another to a better use of their spare time."

"Do not think this an unworthy ideal for a Church hall. The first miracle that Jesus did was when he helped to make a wedding feast a great success."

"The last newspaper that I received from England stated that an exhibition of modern paintings of Jesus Christ our Lord had been held. The one that won the most praise was that of the Master with a baby sitting on his knee watching a group of children around him having a grand time. In the picture the face of our dear Master is filled with glad laughter."

School In Hall
"You are going to have a school in this hall. The word school comes from the Greek people who were very learned, like the Chinese of old. The word they used for school, which we have taken into our English language, means leisure. Will you always then think of your Hall as a centre for leisure. I hope the school is not only for little ones, but also for young men and women to come and pass their spare time."

"Let this be a place for concerts and plays, good lectures on travel and beauty, and where young people may come together."

"Offer to God in this Hall the leisure life of men and women that he may look down as Jesus looked down on the children with a smile of gladness in his heart to see all his children busy and happy in their leisure hours."

ARTS EXHIBITION

An interesting arts exhibition is now being held at the Sincere Company's roof garden by students of the Lai Ching Arts College, of Leighton Hill Road and many well-known Chinese artists. It includes many scrolls and paintings, needle-work, and embroidery. The exhibition, which is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, will be closed on Wednesday.

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, JUNE 17, 1934.

Cinderella.

WHEN once a proverbial expression has passed into common use however inappropriately, it seems impossible to overtake it. A recollection of the origin appears to be almost pedantic;—for example, "Frankenstein's Monster" looks odd when "Frankenstein" has been familiar for years. The title conferred upon Hong Kong by one of our contemporaries of "The Cinderella of the British Empire" suggests a similar reflection.

What was it that made Cinderella so famous? She was a girl of great natural beauty, who neglected her make-up, never waved her hair, and wore simple but practical frocks in order that she might do the cooking for the household and in odd moments devote herself to cleaning up her kitchen. She was of a generous and forgiving disposition. — infinitely more desirable as a friend or a wife than the ugly sisters who put upon her so much work they should have shared; and only once did she permit herself to heave a sigh of regret that she could not go to the ball along with the ugly ones who spent so much time on personal adornment with such very disappointing results.

But there have been other maids as beautiful and diligent and virtuous. — at least in fairy stories. What made her famous was that no sooner did she heave that sigh of regret for the fleshpots of Egypt than there appeared the fairy godmother who gave her by a wave of her wand all the adornment and the costume that any belle of the ball could desire, with a golden carriage and six white horses, and in the end a handsome prince whose unearned wealth could ensure all the luxuries of her dreams as a permanency.

How far does the analogy hold? Does our industrious virtue so shine before the world as to attract any fairy godmother? Or has she travelled so often to Hong Kong that she has begun to pay some attention to the ugly sisters? It was the British Navy that in the old days provided for our predecessors a magnificent deep-water harbour and a spacious island to replace the churlishness of Macao and the cramped Hong of Canton, so far as these things are not the gift of Nature herself. The New Territories may not be favourable for intensive cultivation, but at any rate when more land was wanted for motoring and sport it was provided. All that Hong Kong did was to ask for it. For a hundred years now, very nearly, it has been left to the merchants of Hong Kong to make their own history undisturbed by any invasion or serious interference; and the contribution that has been made has never equalled the money spent by the Imperial Forces.

The world of to-day consists of four sorts of people. There are the people who grow things; the people who make things; the people who protect or destroy things. By electing to belong to the third class of community Hong Kong has been able to profit by every boom or new invention made by the first two classes. She has a central position that is another gift of the fairy godmother, that will enable her to profit in the same way again. There is a period just now of slack trade for the merchants because the cultivating countries are trying to make as many things as they can, and the manufacturing countries to grow as much as they can. These things will find a new equilibrium when experiment has shown how far the new policies can be pushed. Every development brings its own limitations as well as its advantages; and what Hong Kong needs is readiness for adaptation to new conditions.

We are distinctly given to understand that there would have been no visit from the fairy godmother if Cinderella had wasted her time joining in the jealousies of the ugly sisters instead of cleaning up her kitchen.

THE delicious flavour of "Ovaltine" makes it a great favourite with children. And that is fortunate — for "Ovaltine" supplies, in abundant measure, the additional nourishment which children need to make good the energy they spend so prodigally all day long. "Ovaltine" is prepared from the highest qualities of malt extract, creamy milk and new-laid eggs.

But remember, it must be "Ovaltine." Unlike imitations, "Ovaltine" does not contain household sugar to give it bulk and to cheapen the cost, nor does it contain a large percentage of cocoa. —Reject substitutes.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 100.

Butterflies.

Keroh's "Butterflies of Hong Kong and South-east China" published in 1905 and 1906 in six parts by Kelly and Walsh has been unobtainable for some years. We believe that a number of copies were destroyed in a fire years ago and that made the work still harder to obtain. There has recently been published (January 1934) by Kyle, Palmer & Co., Ltd., Kuala Lumpur, F.M.S., at $4.50 Straits currency, a book entitled "The Butterflies of the Malay Peninsula" by A. S. Corbet and H.M. Pendlebury. This book of over 250 pages contains two maps, two coloured and fourteen photographic plates and thirty four text figures. Two hundred and twenty five specimens are illustrated in the photographic plates. The illustrations are for the most part to a reduced scale of four fifths and only the body and wings on one side are depicted for economy of space. The letter press is good and an English name has been included for every species described. A large number of the species to be found in Hong Kong are described and illustrated in this book and we strongly recommend anyone interested in the collecting of butterflies to buy it. Full details are included about methods of setting and preserving specimens.

Jelly Bugs

The marine organisms which are called locally by this name are beginning to make their presence felt in Repulse Bay and other bathing resorts though they are not at their worst till later in the summer. What Jelly Bugs are exactly we cannot say as we have never examined them closely. They are not Jelly Fish, in the usual sense of the word, though they certainly belong to the same division in the animal Kingdom, the Coelenterata, which includes also the corals, sea-pens, and sea-anemones. Jelly Bugs belong to the order Siphonophora which are all colonial forms not single individuals as is a jelly-fish. The best known of these is the Portuguese Man-of-war, the float of which grows to a length of 12 centimetres, which has the most painful stinging apparatus of the whole order. The Jelly Bug, as we know it, probably is less than one centimetre in length and is absolutely transparent save perhaps for a globule of yellowish oil. We should very much like to obtain specimens but they are not easy things to handle.

The stinging mechanism, common to jelly fish, anemones, corals and jelly-bugs consists of a battery of specialised cells which discharge their contents when suitably irritated. Each cell contains a capsule which bears at one end a long hollow thread continuous with the wall of the capsule. The thread is turned inside out, as a finger of a glove can be, and lies spirally coiled within the bulb of the capsule. At the junction between the thread and capsule (i.e. where the finger joins the palm of a glove) are a number of short spines fixed to the sides of the tube and pointing inwards. When the cell is stimulated it contracts and the pressure on the capsule causes the thread to be turned inside out and shot out. The spines or the base of the tube are the first to emerge and as they do so turn round and emerge point first and puncture the skin of the water-flea, fish or bathing belle who has annoyed the coelenterate. Very often, as the rest of the tube is shot out, the spines are bent back till they come to lie as the barbs on an arrow point; this action tends to lacerate the wound and perhaps to hook the tube onto the creature stung. The capsule contains poison and as the cell continues to contract the poison is squeezed out and some of it enters the wound caused by the spines. One or two such stings would not be felt by man but when batteries of these cells are discharged one after the other the combined effect may be irritating, painful or even dangerous depending on the type of coelenterate that is firing the batteries.

The effect of jelly-bug stings is usually only of a transient nature but those of some of the larger yellow Jelly fish, which can be likened to the lash of a whip or to a scald by a spray of boiling water, may be more serious. Men have even died from jelly fish stings but the number of deaths by this cause has not seriously affected the population of the world and Hong Kong has not yet added its quota to the death-roll so there is no immediate cause for alarm.

AS OTHERS SEE US

COMFORT BEFORE APPEARANCE.

Lead From "Taipans" Is Required.

(By Wanderer.)

BEING a happy-go-lucky individual myself, taking life as it comes in a sane and reasonable manner, and looking more on the bright and humorous side of life. I venture to suggest that things could be a lot easier and a little less trying to all and everyone who have the fortune, or misfortune, as the case may be, to live in this colony of Hong Kong.

Having roamed the world at large for a number of years, and viewed many interesting countries, each with its own particular beauty and enchantment, I have at long last steamed through the Lyemooon Pass to gaze upon the majestic beauty of this world-famed Hong Kong.

To me, a stranger in your midst, you possess a beautiful and delightful place wherein to dwell. Well organised to my mind, in the way of administration, and everything looking peaceful and harmonious in its oriental setting. Though granted, there are times when everything does not run so smoothly as it should, and opinions are voiced against this and that.

But such is human nature, and this is likely to happen in any other place or hamlet within a radius of ten thousand miles of your "light-house," which stands at the cross-roads of Des Voeux Road and Pedder Street. But it seems to me, however, that the majority of you who read these lines, take life too seriously, and go about your diverse duties in a manner ill befitting the sunny clime in which you are at present domiciled. Perhaps the conventions you have for so many years been following have got you down, and although at heart you kick against them, yet the majority of you do not have the courage to step out and place comfort before appearance.

Closely Fitting Collar. In this respect I refer to the male element, who, in spite of the heat during these hot and trying days, go about their daily routine all dolled up, as if they were in London or New York. Admitted they look perfect in their white or palm-bench, with a nice clean collar which, in the majority of cases, is cruelly jammed against the throat. But do they feel comfortable? I guess they do not, but it on life will be less serious.

MR. PETER GRANT WEDS

Married To London Girl.

REGISTRY OFFICE CEREMONY

A popular police wedding took place at the Registry Office, Supreme Court, yesterday morning when Mr. Peter Grant, Assistant Superintendent of Police was married to Miss Joyce Lorna Dobbin of London.

The bride, who wore a gorgeous lace dress, carried a bouquet of gladioli and was attended by Mrs. J. McLellan, who wore a lemon silk dress.

Colonel F. Eaves, D.S.O., the Registrar, performed the ceremony.

Among the large number of friends present were the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G., Inspector General of Police, and Mrs. Wolfe, Mr. T. H. King, Deputy Inspector General of Police, Mr. T. Murphy, Assistant Superintendent of Police and Mrs. Murphy, Inspector and Mrs. J. Murphy, Inspector and Mrs. S. Logan, Inspectors M. Murphy, Fender, and M. Murphy, and Sergeants J. O'Donovan, Blach and Bryon.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Hong Kong Hotel. The honeymoon is being spent at Repulse Bay Hotel.

DOUGLAS CO. LOSE 2ND. ENGINEER.

Mr. Dryden Passes At Age Of 58.

18 YEARS ON CHINA COAST.

The death occurred yesterday morning of Mr. William Dryden, second engineer of the Douglas Line steamer s.s. Haining, at the age of 58 years.

Mr. Dryden was admitted to the French Convent Hospital in April, suffering from pneumonia, from which he contracted diabetes.

Mr. Dryden has been on the China Coast for 18 years, the whole of that time having been spent in the service of the Douglas Steamship Company. He is well-known on the coast, and a great friend of all sea-faring men.

Deceased, who was a native of Dundee, was a widower. He leaves a grown-up son and daughter in Sydney, and a grand-child. The funeral will pass the Monument to-day at 4 p.m.

CANADA DUE ON FRIDAY

The s.s. Empress of Canada arrived at Yohohama at 7.30 a.m. yesterday and left at 2 p.m. She is due in Hong Kong at 7 a.m. on Friday next, and will sail again at 8 p.m. for Manila on the same day.

SANITARY BOARD MEETING

A motion relative to the naming of Pokfulam Village as one of the villages where the sale of food outside the markets is prohibited will be brought up at the meeting of the Sanitary Board, to be held at 4.15 p.m. on Tuesday, June 19.

is the customs, so they carry on.

Now take the female of the species, although they too seem to take life more seriously, they are in a better position to dress according to climatic conditions. They may have little or nothing on, yet they look comfortable and their appearance would always be registered as Al at Lloyds.

Keep an eye on your "Ferry Sisters" (probably you do) and notice how cool and collected they are in their sleeves, and the present-day fashion of "net gloves". You may not have the courage to wear the net gloves, but I feel sure you could make life less trying if you wore a cricket shirt and shorts just as I do.

A step in the right direction would be for the "taipans" or heads of firms to start this "hygiene and comfort" campaign and the juniors would soon follow suit. I shall not be here long, as I am sailing for the South, were convention makes no demands, and a loin cloth is quite à la mode; yet I hope before I go that you will have laid aside certain unbecoming customs and that your outlook on life will be less serious.

The Latest Arts.

ONLY very old-fashioned people talk now-a-days of "Art" as if it consisted of the production of easel-pictures, to be exhibited to a more or less listless public and then disappear into limbo. The day of the easel-picture is almost finished; though every now and then a big price is given at Christie's for a painting by some famous man who had sensitiveness to form and colour balanced by technical skill of execution. The price is what is called a "sacred price," like what the "Brains Trust" has tried to secure for wheat and cotton. Once the painter is dead, he is no longer in danger of being converted to abstract forms of self-expression which might create a prejudice against the self that gets expressed. No; we all realise now that art is simply the choice of the best means of doing something that has to be done. If we want to drive from the tee down the fairway,—and who does not?—we submit meekly to the sarcasms of the professional expert; and we know that if our self demands expression by a wrong position of our elbows, no aesthetic excuse will evade the witticism that may found a local legend.

Our Novels.

THE modern novel is a piece of workmanship based on French exemplars, which shows in structure and execution how carefully the criticism of the best critics has been weighed and acted on. The author keeps himself well in the background, refraining from any of those personal comments on life which in Thackeray delighted his readers sometimes more than the narrative. No modern writer would perpetrate the faulty construction of Dickens, who began a book purporting to give the records of a social club, and then allowed old Pickwick to concentrate all the interest on himself. The list of writers who can turn out really "good stuff" is quite a long one; but as soon as we have solved the formula we are content to seek the unexpected in the drive from the tee. Even Shakespeare, when he set out to write a play about Henry IV, allowed Falstaff to "stop the show" and "take all the fat." Nobody wants to alter the proportions of the fat knight to fit the original plan. Now we must be held willy-nilly to the subject; the novelist must be allowed to write about what he likes. Our complaint is that he will not write about anything else.

The Cinema.

THE same conformity to the canons of clever critics has seized upon the films. We know that the film appeals to the eye and only in a minor degree to the ear, but sometimes a bit of comic dialogue would be a great relief. If a class is too short it will not appeal to the sentimental; if too long there will be a rude joke from the "gods." So all kisses take six feet of celluloid; and we begin to feel that not only the reproduction, but life itself has been mechanised. And when we get one of the rare shows that visit Hong Kong in the flesh, the impression is that the late Mr. Ziegfeld once for all proved that shows ought to be just so; and that so they have remained.

Broadcasting.

BUT we must move, with the times. The latest art bids fair to become one of the most important,—the art of Broadcasting. It is bound to influence much of our future civilisation; for it is infinitely more easy to sit in an armchair and sip a cup of tea after switching on the Radio, than to go to a stuffy meeting, or even to read a book. There can be no doubt that Sir John Reith, the English autocrat, has made a very able use of his abundant resources. He has enlisted a number of thoroughly competent young men, who satisfy the technical ruler, and have evolved a new art of giving the public solid information that will do a world of good to their mental health, in moderate doses with the jam of a light and airy conversational style. At no period have the results of the newest research reached the many-headed sons of toil so quickly. The processes by which the results are arrived at, which would usually involve figures and algebra and quadratics, have of course to be omitted. We are quite satisfied to accept the conclusions, for comments has two contradictory solutions.

Police Sergeant At First Not Suspicious.

EVACUATED PREMISES OWING TO FIRE OUTBREAK

Lau Kam, a 25-year-old unemployed, was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistrate's Court yesterday morning, for being found on the first floor of No. 18 Kwai Heung Street for an unlawful purpose, and for attempting to steal a quantity of clothing from a chest of drawers at the same address on Friday.

At the time of the offence the occupants had evacuated the premises on the instruction of the Police during the fire at No. 20 Kwai Heung Street, in which two Chinese were burned to death.

Sergeant Youe said that he went up the stairs and saw accused searching the drawers. He thought that he was the occupant of the flat and did not pay much attention until he saw him run.

A fine of $250, in default three months' hard labour, was imposed on the first charge, and three months' hard labour on the second charge.

2 CASES OF RABIES ON MAINLAND.

Human Case Proves Fatal.

SUSPECT IN KOWLOON TONG

Two cases of rabies, one a human case which proved fatal, and two cases of suspected rabies, have been reported in Kowloon since June 8. The case of human rabies was reported on June 8, from Ting Kau Village, about 11 miles out on the Castle Peak Road. Several dogs in the district, suspected of being rabid, have since been destroyed by the villagers.

On June 8, a rabid dog was reported at Hoi Pa Village, eight miles from Kowloon, on the Castle Peak Road, while on June 9 and yesterday cases of suspected rabies were reported from Kowloon Tong and Yau-mat, respectively.

Death Sentence Plea To Save Murder.

HOTEL BOY GAOLED FOR PETTY THEFT

"I hope Your Worship will pass the death sentence on me, for when I come out of prison, I am going to murder somebody," pleaded Leung King, a servant boy employed at the Hong Kong Hotel, before Mr. Q. A. A. MacFadyen at the Central Police Court yesterday morning, when he was charged with the theft of a pillow cover, a tray cover, and a face towel from the Hong Kong Hotel.

Chan King, a 40-year-old married woman, was charged with receiving the stolen goods.

Sentence of four months' hard labour was imposed on each of the accused. Sergeant Hemsley prosecuted.

CALCUTTA'S CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

One case of small-pox is reported in Hong Kong in the health bulletin of Eastern Ports, for the week ended June 9.

Cholera is spreading through Calcutta, 75 cases having reported, while, at the same port 15 cases of small-pox have been reported.

MAN GAOLED FOR SOLICITING FOUND TO BE LEPER

Chung Mun, a 34-year-old Chinese, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday for soliciting. On examination it was found that he was a leper.

We are quite satisfied to agree with him too. We feel that now we understand that particular problem, and that like other modern mysteries it has two contradictory solutions.

Death But An Incident In Life Eternal After The "Last Post" Comes The "Reveille"

WHY MANY FEAR DYING

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by the local Army chaplain.)

ON Tuesday last it fell to my unfortunate lot to stand by an open grave in Happy Valley and lay to his rest the remains of a soldier who, the day before, had met his end under conditions, pitiful in their tragedy.

There are few things more intensely impressive than a military funeral. The gun-carriage, draped with the Union Jack, the band playing that haunting slow march, the firing party with arms reversed, the volleys that crash into the silence that can almost be felt, the bugles at the end sounding the "Last Post," to be followed by the "Reveille."

One cannot help wondering, at moments such as these, what are thoughts in the minds of those who have gathered to pay their last tribute, to the one whose voice they will hear no more.

Possibly there are two feelings which the thought of death has ever kindled in the human heart, and the first of them is curiosity,—the unquenchable curiosity to know what lies beyond. A well known Essayist dealing with the curious question as to why crowds, in the olden days, used to flock to witness executions, stated that it was, in his opinion, not just savagery that brought them there, but the unappeasable curiosity which death for ever stirs in the human heart.

But there is another feeling that is ever linked with curiosity—death has always been a source of fear. It is something that we share with all animate creation. Wherever there is life in any form there is an instinct which recoils from death. It is old as existence; wide as the world; deep as the whole social fabric. It is not a religious thing, though religion has deepened it. How keenly it was felt in the old world, every reader of ancient literature knows well. The aim and object of the old philosophy was largely to crush it out of human life. In the gloomy poem of Lucretius, in Cicero and Plutarch and Seneca, we learn what a mighty thing the fear of death was in the days of the Roman Empire.

Fear Always Present. On the other hand this fear is not always present and insistent. When we are enjoying good health, when we are happy, and the world is going well with us, we never think of death at all. We know too, how a passion or enthusiasm will master that fear within our hearts. A soldier forgets it in the heat of battle. A mother, for her child's sake

Again much of our fear springs from the thought that death is the end of everything. It is always sad to say goodbye, and death is the longest farewell of all. We cling with passionate longing to the life which we have known. We have grown so familiar with it across the years. It has been a glad thing to have our work to do, and to know the joy of love and of life.

Let us remember, in moments such as these, that hard by the Hill of Calvary was a garden, and in that garden on the morning of the Resurrection, there came forth from the tomb, one Who ever since has been the first-fruits of them that sleep.

If the grave for Him was not an end, but only an incident in life eternal, then we may rest assured that in his love there is no such sadness as the broken melody. All we have striven to be we shall attain. All we have loved shall meet us once again with eyes that are transfigured in the dawn. Every purpose that here was baffled, and every love that never was fulfilled, all that, and all our labour glorified, shall still be ours when the shadows flee away. This life is but a prelude to the piece, an introduction to the book. It is not "finitum," that was how Christ mastered this element, and made it possible for breaking hearts to bear the voiceless sorrow of farewell.

We can rest assured that after the "Last Post" of life, there comes the "Reveille."

care for animals. [To the Editor "Sunday Herald."] Sir,—May I invite all lovers of animals personally to see that their domestic pets are at this season of the year provided with an adequate supply of drinking water at all times?

In particular I would ask them to remember that birds in their natural state seek shelter during the heat of the day and that to leave caged birds exposed to the glare and heat of the sun, without proper protection, will cause suffering. Such birds are prisoners, unable to protect themselves as they would in a natural state, so please give them at least this careful attention.

OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

London, May 21.

Back-stage Campaign

The repeal of the land tax is the result of a secret and intensive campaign by Conservative back-benchers.

Not only did they seize every opportunity of pressing their demand on the Government, but it is understood that they had several private interviews with the Chancellor and one with Mr. Baldwin.

Even the fact that some of the interviews had taken place was kept secret.

In 1932 the operation of the tax was suspended. There was keen disappointment that it was not repealed altogether last year.

The campaign was then begun. At first the anti-land taxers found little encouragement. But as they persisted their influence began to tell on Conservative Ministers, who eventually overcame the scruples of the Prime Minister and Mr. Thomas.

Difference of Opinion

Lord Stonehaven is the Chairman of the Conservative Party machine.

It may, therefore, be assumed that in his speech in the Lords Reform Bill debate, he was giving not merely his personal opinion but the views of the Party's expert officials.

He expressed what is a widely held opinion, that at a time when a combination of parties were working together as a National Government, there was some hope of carrying out a reform of the Constitution.

There is evidently some conflict between the desires of the Central Office, and the intentions of the Conservative members of the Government.

Allen Choristers

Protests against the employment of six Viennese choristers in the forthcoming opera season at Covent Garden were to be expected.

There is something to be said for the Minister of Labour's permission. The men in question are merely a nucleus for the purposes of giving a "stiffening" to a new, complicated and unfamiliar work which they have sung many times in Vienna.

The bulk of the chorus, in addition, of course, to orchestra, ballet and stage-hands, is wholly British; in pre-war times Covent Garden had a foreign chorus for the most part.

British Equity's action is a little inconsistent, for there was no complaint when a few months ago, a German light-opera company gave a season at the Aldwych Theatre, without anyone of British nationality on the stage even in the humblest capacity.

A Crusader on War Debts.

The subject of a recent debate at the Empire Crusaders' Club was Britain's war debt to the United States.

The chief speaker was Mr. Richard Glover, who illuminated his address on "Quits with America," with the following quip:

*Yankee-doodle borrowed brass;
Yankee-doodle spent it;
Yankee-doodle winked his eye
And laughed at the fools who lent it.*

The jingle refers to the American default on British loans in 1845, and was sung by disgruntled British bondholders at the time. The sum involved was £35,000,000.

If the accrued interest up to today be added to the principal, all Britain's debts would be washed out.

Mr. Glover was forceful, brilliant, witty and provocative.

A Convalescing Premier.

An overseas visitor now in England is Mr. W. Forgan Smith, the Labour Prime Minister of Queensland.

Mr. Forgan Smith is Perthshire born and is the son of a landscape gardener.

He went to Queensland as a young man and made his home at Mackay, an important centre of the Queensland sugar industry.

He has been a member of Queensland Parliament since 1915 and has played a leading part in framing the advanced Labour laws of his State.

Although convalescence after an operation is the main reason for his trip to England, it is understood that he will take the opportunity of discussing with Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister and, possibly, with Mr. Runciman, the preference and quota scheme for sugar which was introduced recently.

TRADE MARKS FOR DECEIT.

Colgate Palmolive Peat Company Win Case.

CHINESE FINED $75 AND TO PAY $150 COSTS

Chan Yin, of the Chan Yin Firm, of No. 18 Fat Hing Street and of No. 169 Connaught Road West, was fined $50, on two summonses, by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning for being in possession of brands of dental cream bearing trade marks which were calculated to deceive. The complainants were the Colgate Palmolive Peat Company, of U.S.A. He was ordered to pay $75 and $150 costs to complainants on the two summonses.

Mr. Hugh Jones appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. O. E. C. Marton for the Chan Yin firm.

Mr. Marton at the first hearing drew attention to a discrepancy in the wording of one of the two summonses against his client, in that the summons did not describe the trade mark which they were supposed to have resembled.

Mr. Hugh Jones submitted that it was not necessary to specify this on the summons.

ARMY OFFICER NOT GUILTY

Correction To Former Report.

We have been requested to publish the following correction to what appeared in our issue of the 10th inst., referring to a news item headed "Army Officer Not Guilty". The last paragraph should have read as follows:—

In discussing the case, Mr. Hamilton said that he was certain that Mr. F. T. Nicholson must have had a cause of grievance concerning the defendant's car and the tram, as otherwise he would not have taken the trouble to come up and give evidence.

WILLYS

Low First Cost and Upkeep Dependability and Safety Appearance and Comfort Acceleration and Speed

1934 Willys Model "77" Sedan

With Patented Floating Power
30 to 35 MILES PER GALLON . . . 70 MILES PER HOUR

The 1934 Willys has been designed with the conviction that many buyers wish to own a sensible car free from everything that means unjustified expense. THE WILLYS IS THE FIRST FULLY STREAMLINED ECONOMY CAR—it is easy to drive and to park—is spacious and comfortable—has properly angled seats—ample power for quick acceleration; for hill climbing, and a reserve for the higher speeds.

When considering the purchase of a new car do not overlook the fact that its principal use is for your transportation from place to place. No matter how much you pay for a car, this is the basic reason for owning one. Would it not be a sensible thing to purchase a Willys that gives this transportation at a low cost and then use the savings for other purposes—a few suggestions are: Home improvements . . . Clothing . . . Recreation . . . Education . . . Insurance . . . or visits to places of interest—cheaply, speedily and in comfort.

Remember, also that in your daily use of a car to the office—shopping—social calls, these short distances may not cost much each trip, but they accumulate a large yearly mileage representing a real expense . . . unless a Willys is used. If you use a car mainly for business purposes, the Willys will effect savings—giving you additional profit.

AN INTERNATIONAL ROAD RULE

League of Nations Gives Mind To Matter.

TRAFFIC COMMITTEE'S PROGRESS

(By PERCY HORSENAIL)

In view of the public interest which is at last being taken in the death-roll of the roads, it is interesting, but hardly surprising, to find the League of Nations enquiring of Governments what are the laws in force in their various countries concerning the conditions of issue and withdrawal of motor-drivers' licences.

The subject of road traffic is one on which it is essential to have a certain international understanding. Motor-drivers in foreign countries, for example, are liable to get into the most difficult and dangerous situation through the confusion occasioned by different rules, signs, etc.

Many accidents occur, for example, owing to drivers forgetting that the rule of the road differs in different countries. Unfortunately, it has not yet proved possible to get all the countries of the world to agree to one rule. In minor respects, however, the League's road traffic committee has done excellent work. It has, for example, worked out and recommended a uniform system of road signalling.

This covers not only danger signs, signs prohibiting passage, signs showing parking places and the like (nearly every country in Europe to-day uses the familiar blue plate bearing a capital P to which English drivers are accustomed), but also signals to be made by drivers and by traffic police.

TRIPTYCH SYSTEM

Another piece of work of the greatest benefit to motor-drivers has been the Convention worked out by the League for the general adopting of the triptych system.
The present enquiries are obviously necessary. Most countries require a fairly severe test before a driver is allowed on the roads at all. Great Britain has hitherto insisted on the liberty of the sub-

FIVE INJURED IN CAR SMASH

Lorry In Collision On Castle Peak Road.

Five persons were injured, one of whom is said to be in a serious condition, when a motor-lorry and a public vehicle came into collision on the Castle Peak Road on Friday near the 11½ milestone.

Wong Shu, the lorry driver employed by the Yat Shing Garage, in his report to the police, said that while rounding a bend on the Castle Peak Road a public vehicle suddenly appeared in the opposite direction and struck his lorry.
Five persons in the car were injured and sent to the Kowloon Hospital.

The injured people are, Tang Yao Yin, the driver, Chong Po
Woo, of King Shing Shop in Nam Cheong Street, Shamshuipo, Hong Ping, of Un Long, Lau Yuen Ping, of Fook Dah Street and Li Lin of Shanghai Street.

FAMILY QUARREL SEQUEL.

Girl Attempts Suicide
In Harbour.

A Chinese girl, Sun Tso-tai, 25 years, was taken to the Government Civil Hospital on Friday evening, suffering from the effects of immersion when she jumped into the harbour in an attempt to commit suicide from Connaught Road Central, near the Government Radio Office.

She was rescued by occupants of the boats near-by. It was stated that prior to her action she had had a quarrel with other members of her family.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Notice has been issued that vessels are prohibited from mooring to the Sea Wall at Hung Hom within 35 feet to Eastward, and within 60 feet to the Westward of the Hung Hom Ferry Pier. Notice boards have been erected to this effect.

It is to be a limited nuisance to his fellowmen and has refused to impose a test.

As foreign countries are unwilling to allow untrained English drivers on their roads, it has been necessary to arrange an unofficial test through private organisations, the passing of which is accepted by foreign countries as an act of grace. Clearly, however, it will make for fairness and will avoid many unnecessary complications if something like a uniform standard for the conditions of issue and withdrawal of licences can be established.

ANNIVERSARY OF SUN YAT-SEN'S STIRRING RESCUECommemoration In Canton.*DRAGON BOAT RACE HELD

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday. Fitting commemorations were observed to-day in honour of the escape of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Father of the Chinese Republic, from his White House here, and of the death by drowning of Wut Yuan, a well-known Chinese statesman and patriot, more than 2,000 years ago.

As the founder of the Kuomintang, Dr. Sun was again extolled this morning at a memorial service held in the Chungshan Memorial Hall, on the anniversary of his escape from the clutches of General Chen Chung-ming, 13 years ago. General Chen opposed Dr. Sun's orders to lead the Cantonese troops in the northern expedition, and sent soldiers to surround Dr. Sun's headquarters with the object of killing him.

Dr. Sun did not realise that his subordinate would turn against him. Loyal followers placed Dr. Sun in a motor-car, and shot their way through the cordon of besieging soldiers. The Chinese leader was unhurt, being surrounded in the car by his trusted adherents.

BOAT RACE FESTIVAL

The commemoration of Wut Yuan's suicide was in the form of the dragon boat race. He was a high official during the Chow dynasty, and drowned himself in the Yangtze River, because his advice was ignored by the Emperor. The dragon boat race was intended to scare away the fish from eating Wut Yuan's body. Rice dumplings were thrown into the river for the fish, in order to spare the corpse of the dead hero.

These rites were repeated to-day as an honour to Wut Yuan, the dragon boat festival now being an annual public event. The aquatic race was held on the Canton River, at Tungshan. The river was crowded with spectators who witnessed the race from the banks or from flower boats and other craft.

3 BORDERERS MAKE RETURN TO BARRACKS

Lo King, a public vehicle driver, made a report to the police on Friday night that his car, No. 351, was engaged by three British soldiers at 11.30 p.m. in Gloucester Road to go to Repulse Bay beach. A sum of $2 was paid in advance.

On arrival at a spot near Repulse Bay Hotel one of the soldiers gripped him from behind while the other two struck him with their fists and at the same time extracted $2 from his pocket. The soldiers then deserted the car and ran towards the beach.

One of the soldiers, however, left his service cap and stick in the car. The driver returned to town and made a report at the Wanchai Police Station.

At 1.20 o'clock on Saturday morning three soldiers were seen in the vicinity of Stanley Police Station, but later when the police report of an highway robbery was circulated, all efforts to locate the soldiers proved unsuccessful. A large number of police were sent to Stanley, and a concentrated search of the countryside in the vicinity of Stanley and Island Road was made throughout the night.

Tsoi Yau was sentenced to nine months hard labour by Mr. J. B. H. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday morning for returning from banishment without an authorised permit.

Wong Sui, a 23-year-old woman, was sentenced to six months hard labour by Mr. J. B. H. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for returning from banishment without an authorised permit.

Wong Cheung, an employee of the Taikoo Dockyard, was sent to the Government Civil Hospital on Friday, suffering from a scratched hand sustained when the hatch cover of the H.M.S. Proteus fell on him.

TOMBOLA TO AID CHARITIES.Mr. Lambert Wins Four Prizes.*GARRISON SOCIAL EVENING

Mr. W. Lambert was the winner of four prizes at the weekly tombola held at the Garrison Lecture Hall, Wellington Barracks, last evening, in aid of military charity.

Prizes to the value of $500 were distributed among 52 winners. The tombola was started three weeks ago.

The following were the prize winners:—Mr. W. Lambert, Mrs. D. Shaw, Mr. G. Bubbitt, Mr. M. Gardener, Mr. J. Thomson, Mr. J. Sale, Mr. W. John, Mr. J. Ward, Mr. J. Ball, Mr. F. Ballard, Mr. L. C. Gray, Mr. H. Baker, Mr. H. Holt, Mr. W. Lunn, Mr. W. Smith, Mr. H. Thomas, Mr. J. Winfield, Mr. T. Taylor, Mr. T. Herford, Mr. S. Barrett, Mr. K. T. Taylor, Mr. A. F. Edwards, and Mr. P. King.

U.S. DEFICIENCY BILL THROUGH.$50,000 Reward For Dillinger.

Washington, Yesterday. The United States Senate has passed the deficiency Bill. Its provisions include U. S. $525,000,000 for drought relief. An amendment was added ensuring rewards amounting to U. S. $50,000, for the capture of American's Public Enemy No. 1, John Dillinger, and other criminals.—Reuter.

DOWN 5-1 BUT WINS

The British player won the first set, dropped the second through over-confidence, and was match point at 5-1 in the final set.

Miss Palfrey, however, served three aces in succession to reduce the arrears to 5-2. Thereafter the young American served magnificently, never putting a ball wrong. She then quickened up her game and drove and volleyed splendidly.

Miss Scriven, who recently beat Helen Jacobs in straight sets to retain the French title, sent over weak returns in the face of this unexpected onslaught, and allowed the American to lead 6-5. She, however, levelled the match at 6-all; but her rival's magnificent tennis saw her go out at 8-6 for a sensational triumph.

Last match not received. Britain last won the trophy, which was presented in 1923 and which is competed for annually, in 1930 at Wimbledon.

The agreement reached by Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini at Venice is based on four points and includes frequent personal contacts and provides recognition. The independence of Austria will be observed without a guarantee by either party.

Germany expresses willingness to return to Geneva provided her full rights of parity in armaments are recognised.

ST. ANDREW'S CLUB PICNIC

A very enjoyable launch picnic was held by the St. Andrew's Club at Deep Water Bay yesterday afternoon from 3.30 p.m. to 7.30 p.m. Among the large number present were Mr. W. F. Fincher, Mr. A. E. P. Guest, Mr. E. F. Salk, Mr. R. Dormer and Scouts of the St. Andrew's Troop, Mr. S. V. Gittins, Mr. J. T. K. Gilchrist and Mrs. Millington.

NEW TAX TO AID CANTON FARMERSStiff Impost On Imported Farm Produce.*INDO-CHINA HARD HIT

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday. Imported agricultural products are now subject to a further increase of 20 per cent. surtax, effective from to-day, bringing the impost to $1.73 Mex. a picul. The commodity most effected is rice from Siam and Indo-China.

Originally the tax was $1.00 Mex. per picul. An initial increase of 20 per cent was made, with two subsequent increases of 20 per cent. The first and third increases were made under the pretext that revenue was required for the relief of farmers, while the second increase was to diminish the amount of provincial banknotes in circulation, the paper money then being depreciated.

Before the tax was introduced, the rice consumed here was supplied by Hong Kong dealers, who imported rice, although the price in general has not increased. The tax on imported agricultural products has yielded a monthly sum of $1,807,762.38 which will be increased to $2,000,000 by the latest surtax.

This tax is collected by the Provincial Department of Finance, which is also attempting to levy a business tax on foreign firms in Canton. Later arrangements will be made to collect a similar tax from those in other ports of Kwangtung. The foreign consuls in Shamen have received formal notifications requiring foreign companies to pay the business tax, and have forwarded the notifications to their respective home governments through their legations at Peking.

No date has been set for the collection of this tax on foreign firms.

MOTERING NOTES - -

MOTOR COUCHES IN DESERT.

Boon For Travellers In Syria.

Travellers from Bagdad to Damascus across the Syrian desert now can use a modern motor coach instead of a camel. This trip of about 470 miles is made in 24 hours as compared with 20 days by camel.

Clockwork autos are being introduced into India from Japan. These cars run 40 miles to a winding and sell for less than $150.

PRINCE'S MOTOR-CAR PATENT.

For Locating Trouble.

Bucharest.—Prince Nicholas of Rumania is now bidding for fame as an inventor. The Roumanian Patent Office has awarded him a patent on a microphonic trouble-finder for automobile engines and other complicated machinery.

It value is said to be in its capacity for locating and magnifying abnormal noises in the machines while running.

1934 HUDSON CAR EXPORTS.

Show Increase Of 260 Per Cent.

Detroit.—Exports of Terraplane and Hudson cars are closely paralleling the increase of domestic business. During the period from January 1 to April 15, 1934, there has been an increase of 260 per cent. as compared with the same period for 1933 in export business.

In addition to this, unfilled orders on hand as of April 16 were approximately five times as high as they were on the same date a year ago.

CARS INCREASING IN NORTH IRELAND

The number of private cars registered in Northern Ireland for the months of January and February, 1934, was 470 and 265, respectively, against 325 and 180 for the corresponding months of 1933.

WILLYS "77" MAKES 1934 DEBUT THE FULLY STREAMLINED ECONOMY CAR

Wire Wheels Instead Of Disc

Willys-Overland features America's first and lowest priced fully streamlined economy car. This 1934 model 77 Willys is practically unchanged in design from the 1933 car which created one of the greatest sensations in automotive history, and was the forerunner of a design that other manufacturers are now showing for the first time.

Economy in operation as well as lower first cost and lower maintenance costs continue as distinct features. With thousands of these Willys cars now in the hands of private owners, the claim of from 30 to 35 miles to the Imperial gallon of fuel has been definitely proved.

The Willys 77 employs an engine with patented "Floating Power" mounting, having a bore of 3-1/8 and a stroke of 4-3/8 inches, developing 48 horsepower at 3200 r.p.m.

Outstanding Features

Among other outstanding features, in addition to the patented "Floating Power" economy, full streamlining from bumper to bumper, power and speed, are: all-steel bodies, adjustable front seats, Float-G oil system, four ringed pistons, steel ringed insert valves, double drop "X"-type frame, bodies insulated against sound and weather, headlamps constructed in fenders, completely concealed gas tank at rear, glove compartment at right of instrument panel, down-draft carburetor, large air cleaner and silencer, force-feed lubrication, hydraulic shock eliminators, steel running board, steel centered safety steering wheel, non-glare windshield, hood ventilating louvers, cable and conduit type four wheel brakes, recess in rear body panel for spare tire, etc.

Sweeping Streamlines

The sweeping streamline is made possible by the use of cowed fenders, with the hood and gracefully slanted grille so shaped as to reduce wind resistance to an absolute minimum. The fender unit itself, having no back-washes or eddies in its conformation, permits the air to flow smoothly over, and away from the body sides. Windshield and roof lines merging with the cowl, coupled with the inward slanting of the body from the belt line, contribute materially to the perfect streamlining theme. Even in the construction of the headlamps, streamlining is included. These are carried in the fenders, and tilted back to conform in every detail with the symmetry of all lines of the car.

At the rear—the fenders carry out the streamline effect, while the body itself in the rear forms a definite smooth, streamlined contour running from the rear upper corner down and past the extreme end of the frame, so that there are no pockets or recesses. This design is carried even further by providing a recess in the back of the body to carry the spare tire.

All-Steel Body

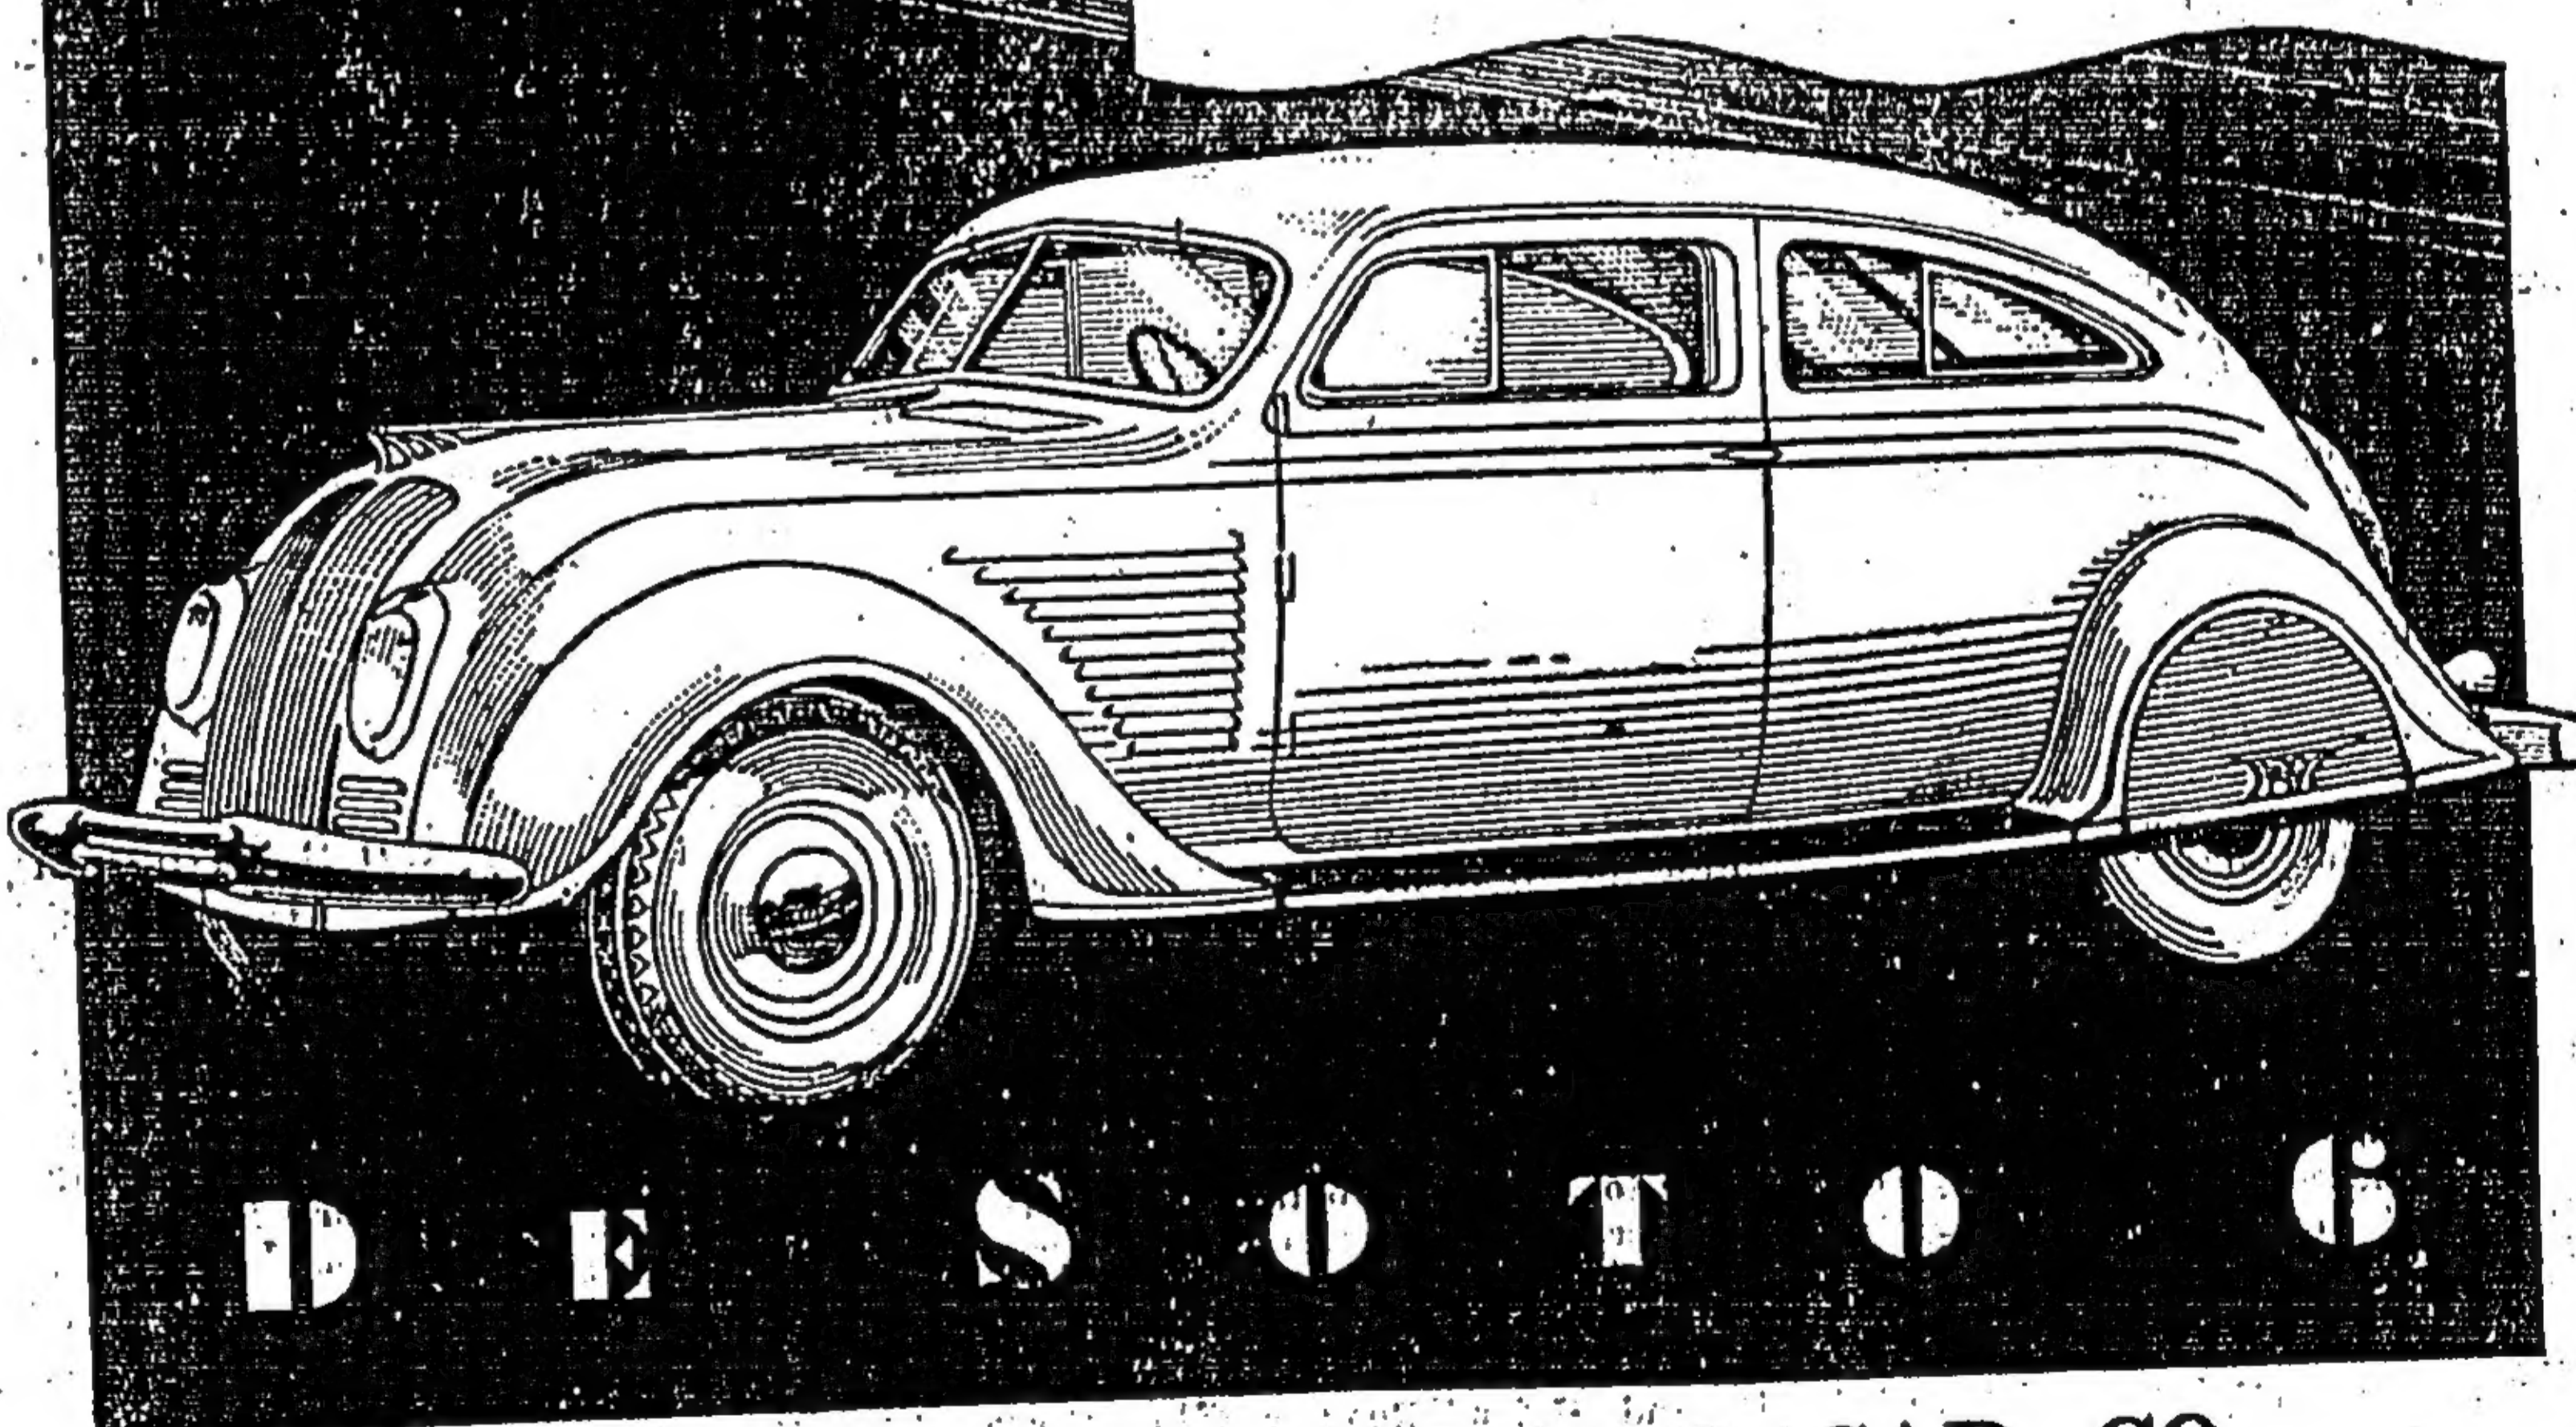

Because of the scientifically designed double-drop "X"-type frame the car has an unusually low center of gravity. This feature, in addition to providing a racy appearance enables the car to fairly hug the road, even at 70 miles an hour, and requires a minimum of "braking" in rounding sharp curves.

With body construction all-steel throughout, unusual rigidity is obtained, which tends to almost entirely eliminate squeaks and rattles.

Two body types are available, — the sedan and the coupe. A study of the sedan body reveals ample leg, head and seat room to accommodate four adult passengers without the slightest inconvenience. The 1 passenger coupe is also characterized by unusual roominess and has a spacious luggage compartment in the rear. This latter model has proved unusually popular with commercial travellers in the past year, who sought style and comfort in addition to minimum economy.

IN THIS
NEW ERA DE SOTO LEADS

From bumper to bumper the Airflow De Soto is new. From bumper to bumper it is functional in design, built to better serve the needs of today's motoring. Its external contour is the result of scientific effort to eliminate air friction and air disturbance, to permit this motor car to move through the air with the least possible resistance. Its interiors are more roomy and more luxurious, designed to add greatly to motor car pleasure. The new Airflow De Soto gives you the performance, the comfort and the luxury you have long wished for in a motor car. It gives you riding and driving ease, a new conception of automotive beauty and undreamed of comfort.

caressed him with light, nervous, fumbling movements, and all the while she whimpered out hot tears.

But when Jack Sedge had made up his mind on a thing he was hard: hard as granite, hard as flint, hard as a pitiless heart.

"But, the height, Jack!" she said, eagerly clutching at a straw. "You come over all badly, all sickly, when you get high up."

"Ah," he said, "but it'll be dark. I won't know I'm high up, in a manner of speaking. So long as I can't see the fall of yond steeple away from under me, I'll be all right. Now, do you dry your eyes, Nellie, and hide quiet. I'm set on it, and I'll not be moved, no, not by all the king's horses."

He found a piece of stout canvas in the outhouse, and took needle and thread, and began to stitch it into a belt; stitched it right and proper, with buttons and button-holes and all. When he had finished the belt to his satisfaction he fashioned another piece of the canvas into a round shape like a cup with no bottom, a sort of holster. He stitched away with methodical neatness, snaking the needle round the rims of the holster, making a tidy seam, turning down the selvage, snicking over it as if it were a job for all time. And when the holster was sewn on to the belt he buttoned it around his waist and made a motion of slipping the cross into the holster.

At ten-time there was a hard look in Nellie's eye which he had never seen there before. She didn't eat; just sat there staring, staring sightlessly out of the window with her face set in despair, and a kind of queer look about her as if she were listening for something, or waiting for a sign to be made manifest every next second. But Jack Sedge was adamant, and strong to endure, and he made no move to comfort her.

The superstitious will read omens into spilled salt, broken mirrors, crossed forks, and the like. And when the sun, going down in his western orbit, seized the cross of St. Ethelbert's in his ruddy embrace and limned it in flame, Nellie Sedge read into that fiery symbol a tale of doom. Soft and low, fearing sorely for her man, she moaned to herself, and the moan turned to a prayer that he might be spared this sacrilege, that his soul might be absolved from damnation, that he might, in the last resort, be struck paralytic. Jack Sedge was content to sit by the hearth most nights with his pipe. To-night he announced his intention of going to the Dun Cow. "And I'll be glad," he said, "to see a straight face on 'ee when I come back. Will I bring you in a bottle of ale?"

But she gave him no reply, and he banged the door as he went out. The smells in the green lane came to him on the cool of the day sweet and strong; the small of tusssocks and loam and honeysuckle and wild thyme and night-scented stocks in the little front gardens. The village, enfolded in a warm duskiness, nestled against the belly of the hill like a young calf nuzzling its mother. Blue smoke lifted above the thatches peaceful and straight, ascending to the young moon as if to give thanks for the day's blessings.

In a larch tree by old Quilter's cottage a thrush gave praise, voicing the last valediction to a happy day. A great peace had come upon the place, and upon Jack Sedge, thinking on the way he would spend a pound here and there, came a vast contentment, laced with a thin, fiery thread of stimulation.

He opened the door of the inn. He was prepared to be amenable when he arrived home, but the sight of his supper laid on the table incensed him. He called up the stairs, roughly, demanding to know what ailed her, that she should go to bed at this time. Listening, he detected a low, smothered sound of lament, a monotone of sobbing. But he steeled himself and was strengthened in his resolve.

She lay quiet when he went upstairs. Her eyes followed him about the room in mute appeal, and he ignored the appeal with clenched teeth, with gloves, and with ill-temper. "Hurling about of his clothes. And now he bustled himself with the setting of the alarm. Day dawned at half-past four. He set the pointer at two o'clock. He knew it was no good trying to coax him, and she didn't speak. As well try to deflect a landslide as attempt to turn him aside from his purpose, once he had set his hand to the plough. She lay awake, waiting for him to go to sleep.

He rose up when the alarm called him, and lit the candle, and was dressed in two minutes. She gave a low cry when he put on the belt with its holster, and sat up, her arms extended in a plea. "Not to-night, Jack, not to-night!"

"If I didn't go to-night, I'd go the next night, or the next night after that," he muttered, darkly, and she fell back, spent. All this she had known, and yet she had hoped, had dared to believe it might not be.

He tied sacking over his boots, and took the saw, and went furiously out, and in five minutes he had begun to climb. The night was still and warm. Nothing stirred. When he had counted a hundred steps he looked down.

He had counted a hundred and eighty steps when a sudden shock moved him; a shock like a stab in the back, like a bullet in the back. He cringed, aligned his body closely with the ladder, and bowed his head in a sweat. Was he seeing things? Oh, God, had he gone mental? He closed his eyes, hung on with his sweatily hands, and counted ten, and assured himself that it couldn't be more than half-past-two.

Then had he seen the slates of the steeple growing plainer to his eyes? Had he seen the rungs of the ladder made visible, ay, as far as six feet above him? No, no, he hadn't, he couldn't, it was impossible, there wasn't a channel Dawn at half-past four, that was the way of it. And later on it would be five, six, seven; the days dawned according to the seasons, without deviation, as sure as Christmas. How should a man see what wasn't there? How, God save him, how?

Aye, how, indeed!

When Jack Sedge opened his eyes the sun had sprung fully-armed from the eastern horizon. Twenty feet above him the cross of St. Ethelbert's dazzled the ambient air. Jack Sedge gave out a sound. High on that steeple, caught like a rat in a trap, he closed his hunted eyes and gave out a sound strangely like Nellie's whimper. And now began a fight against impulse. But, the spunk had gone out of him, the goodness was gone away. He was no fit case for a fight. And, presently, feeling sick to his fingertips, he looked, and saw the sheer fall of the ladder away below, and shrieked, and, in a kind of convulsion, let go.

Such was the end of Jack Sedge, a bad lot, struck down according to all accounts, by the hand of God. It may be. One cannot dogmatise. But, if the hand of God was lifted, then His chosen vessel still exists in the person of Nellie Sedge. For she it was who, resolved to save Jack's soul even though it cost him his life, put back the clock two hours.

TOM-TITS NEST IN LETTER-BOX

Bavarian Village Makes Gesture To Birds

Munich. Two tom-tits have built their nest in the only letter-box in the village of Randerisried, Bavaria, and are preparing to rear a family.

Rather than disturb their domestic bliss the postal authorities have decided to put up a second letter-box in the village.—Router.

Balfe now cashed his remaining diamonds, he would have to squeeze his own hand and make discards from it, before West.

Thus, had East had the foresight to keep this harmless-looking little deuce, south was doomed to go down at his three-notrump contract. But with one of East's three "valueless" diamonds out of the way, Mr. Balfe saw the path to victory and followed it with precision.

One more alternative line of play for the Declarer was suggested in the event that East did not discard a diamond at Trick 2; that was, that a heart be had by South at the third trick. A glance at both hands will show that this line of play could not possibly have won the hand, as the defence would then be able to take 3 heart tricks and the two Aces. All in all, this was the most spectacular losing defensive play that I have seen.

BRIDGE NOTES

A Fatal Discard.

by Ely Culbertson.

Age cannot wither nor can custom stale the infinite variety of hands at Bridge. It was my good fortune recently to run across a really new one—a hand wherein one of the defending players, holding the 2-, 3- and 4-spot of a suit, lost the hand as a result of discarding the 2.

This may sound like Baron Munchausen in his more brilliant moods, or at least as though there were some catch to the story, but the story is both true and catchless. Here it is:

The bidding:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1D Pass

1NT Dbl. 2D Pass

Pass 2H 2NT Pass

3NT Dbl. Redbl. Pass

Pass Pass

The above bidding is neither technically correct nor psychologically to be recommended. Although four excellent players participated in this game, each one of them was trying to be brilliant and outguess the other, and this accounted for some of the weird bids and passes made. At any rate, Mr. Raymond Balfe of New York City was the final Declarer at a contract of three notrump, redoubled.

The Opening lead by West was the heart King. Mr. Balfe did not win with the Ace in Dummy, and West held the trick. He continued with the heart Queen and the Ace won. On this trick, East, a player of national repute, had to discard, and, as a matter of course, threw the deuce of diamonds.

This seemingly harmless discard lost the hand for the defence. Had East, at this trick, kept the 'diamond 2, Declarer would have had no play to fulfill his contract, but with one of East's diamonds out of the way, Mr. Balfe now proceeded to make three notrump.

Here is what happened. After winning the second trick, Mr. Balfe played two rounds of diamonds, stripping both East and West of that suit. A small club was now led from Dummy, and East, quite properly, did not win with the Ace.

He did win the second round of the suit, and now had to find a lead. South, on the bidding, must have a spade honour. If it was the King, a spade lead would set it up and enable Declarer to make four-odd perhaps, while a club return would automatically give South a second club trick while he still had control of the major suits. East chose to return a club, and Mr. Balfe now led a small heart from his hand. This time West was on the spot, as he was now forced to lead either a heart or spade, giving Declarer his ninth trick.

What would have happened had East held on to his third diamond and discarded a club on Trick 2? Mr. Balfe obviously could not immediately run five diamond tricks, as this would squeeze his own hand and he would be forced to discard potential trick winners ahead of West.

Equally, he could not run three diamond tricks and then abandon the suit, as he would never be able to return to Dummy to cash the last 2 tricks in that suit. Therefore, Mr. Balfe's only hope would be to play two rounds of diamonds, as he actually did, and then tackle the club suit.

East, of course, would refuse the first round of clubs, winning the second, and then would be able to exit with the diamond, throwing the lead back to Dummy. If Mr. Balfe had discarded a club on Trick 2, he would have been able to win the hand. Continued at Foot of Preceding Col.

CAR CRASHES WOMAN THROUGH GLASS WINDOW D'AGUIAR STREET ACCIDENT.

DRIVER LOSES CONTROL AND THEN VANISHES

A serious motor-car accident, which, fortunately, was not attended by fatal results, occurred in D'Aguiar Street shortly after 5.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when an Essex motor-car got out of control and backed on to the pavement and crushed, Tang Sam, a Chinese woman of 28 years, against a shop window front.

The driver, taken aback by the sight of the woman pinned between his car and the shop front, deserted his car and bolted.

DRIVER DISAPPEARS

Indian constable No. 740, who was on duty at the corner of Hollywood Road and D'Aguiar Street witnessed the accident and promptly rushed to the assistance of the woman. He pushed the car away and lifted the injured woman to the side. In his attention to the woman he did not notice the driver's disappearance.

The police and ambulance were immediately telephoned for from a nearby shop, but well over 20 minutes had elapsed before an ambulance came to render first aid to the injured woman.

It was found that her right leg was badly injured by the impact and first aid splints were placed into position before lifting her into the ambulance.

The Government Civil Hospital informed the 'Sunday Herald' that there were no external injuries, but that the patient was suffering from severe shock and a bruise on the right thigh. Her condition, however, is not serious.

FREE WHEEL BACKING

The Indian constable, in relating the circumstances of the accident, stated that he noticed the driver carrying on repairs in Hollywood Road. He failed to start the engine and allowed the car to travel backwards in free wheel, apparently with the intention of parking the car in the stand off D'Aguiar Street. He steered the car from the running-board and in his attempt to negotiate the corner of Hollywood Road and D'Aguiar Street, lost control of the car which backed on the pavement, striking the unsuspecting woman.

So severe was the impact that the glass of the shop window, belonging to the Mayeda Fancy Goods store, 13 D'Aguiar Street, was shattered, while valuable curios, costing over $600, were destroyed.

The car is a private vehicle, No. 2249, and is owned by Mr. Leung Kau Pang, of No. 41 Wong Nei Cheong Road, Happy Valley.

PICTURESQUE RACES AT WEST POINT 2,000 PEOPLE WITNESS ANNUAL SPECTACLE IN MEMORY OF FAMOUS POET

The Colony's Chinese yesterday celebrated the annual Dragon Boat Festival, in memory of Wut Yuan, the Chinese poet and patriot, who died over 2,000 years ago. Spectacular dragon boat races to the accompaniment of drums and gongs, were witnessed off the Chung Shing Benevolent Society's bathing beach, Kennedy Town, and at the Chinese Civil Servants' Club's bathing beach.

A crowd, estimated at over 2,000 witnessed four races. The Lun Yip Tong boat won the first race, the Wo Hop Tong boat won the second race, and boats from Yu Shing Tong won the third and fourth races. Silver cups and shields, roasted pigs, and wines were presented to the winners.

Two other boats from Wo Hop Tong and Lun Yip Tong staged races off the Chinese Civil Servants' Club.

The committee consisted of the following: Messrs. Wong Kwong-tin, Lau Yuk-wan, Lau Tin-kwong, Chan Shiu-tong and Lo Yam-suen.

The prizes were distributed by Mr. Kwong Hung-po, manager of the Yee Tin Tong Dispensary.

CHANGTE BACK IN COLONY

Captain And Officers
Retirent.

NOTHING DIVULGED OF ACCIDENT

The Australian Oriental liner, a.s. Changte, which ran aground in the Philippine Islands last Friday week, arrived in Hong Kong at 4.45 p.m. yesterday afternoon, berthing at Holt's Wharf, where she immediately commenced discharging the remainder of her cargo.

None of the ship's officers would make any statement with regard to the accident to the vessel.

When the inter-island steamer Macan of the Compania Maritima line, arrived in Manila last week, she brought 92 passengers of the a.s. Changte which stranded on Manatol point, Basilan, 27 miles south of Zamboanga, according to a report in the Manila Bulletin.

Of these passengers, 78 were said to be Chinese and the rest Europeans. The stranded ship was said to have on board 3,000 tons of general cargo, 600 of which was destined for Manila.

The Changte, one of the most popular vessels on the run, was en route to Hong Kong from Australia via Manila when she met with the accident.

The accident to the Changte upset the wedding arrangements of Mr. Herbert Muskett, whose bride, Miss Maisie Martin of Sydney, was due to have arrived in time for the wedding yesterday afternoon at St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon. It is now hoped that the ceremony will take place next Saturday, June 23.

During the races, a private aeroplane flew low over the dragon boats, providing the spectators with a minor thrill.

The Dragon Boat Festival, which was celebrated throughout China yesterday was commenced in 1888 B.C. as the commemoration of the death of Wut Yuan, the author of "Li Sao."

"Falling into Trouble," Wut Yuan was one of the greatest Chinese classical poets.

CHEQUERED CAREER
Wut Yuan was a loyal minister of the Chow Dynasty, and history states that his position was sapped by the jealousies and intrigues of his colleagues. He was dismissed from his post and gradually sank into deep disfavor.

In the year 288 B.C. he wandered to the bank of the Mi Lo River where he met a fisherman, who accosted him saying: "Are you not his Excellency, the Minister? What has brought you here?"

"The world," he replied, "is foul, and I alone am pure. There they are all drunk, while I alone am sober. So I was dismissed."

SUICIDE IN RIVER
Whereupon the fisherman rejoined that a true sage does not quarrel with his environment, but adapts himself to it.

"If, as you say, the world is foul, why not leap into the water and make it clean he said. 'If all men are drunk, why not drink with them and teach them to avoid excess?'"

When the fisherman left, Wut Yuan clasped a stone and plunged into the river and was never seen again.

Every year on the fifth day of the fifth moon, people continue to search for his body in the hope that they may still find their patriot, and rice is thrown into the water to feed his soul.

Supplies for the day at the Chung Shing Benevolent Society were provided by the following companies:—The Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company (cigarettes), A. S. Watson and Company (drinks), Kai Cheong Jewellery Store (prizes), Tung Yuen Restaurant (cakes), Kwong Mun Lung (firecrackers), Tai Sun Yuen (wines), and the Yee Tung Tong (roasted pigs).

MYSTERIOUS PROWLER

Consecutive Visits To Airlie Hotel.

SIAMESE WOMAN'S ROOM
CHOSEN BOTH TIMES

On two consecutive nights an unknown intruder has entered Room No. 26 at the Airlie Hotel, Kowloon, and conducted a systematic search through the belongings of a lady visitor from Siam. The police are now investigating the mysterious occurrences which appear to be motiveless.

The first visit was paid on Thursday night, when a hurried search appears to have been made through the entire room. Little attention was paid to the affair then, as nothing was stolen.

The intruder, however, returned again on Friday night and repeated the performance, turning the contents of all the drawers and the wardrobe on to the floor.

The only things found to be missing were two documents, the nature of which have not been revealed.

The visit was made between 9 p.m. and 12.15 a.m. during the absence of the lady from the room. Her little son, however, was in bed in the room at the time, but was not awakened. The police were called in, and it is understood that enquiries are proceeding.
